LONGWORTH IS SERIOUSLY ILL OF PNEUMONIA

House Speaker Stricken on Visit to Friends in Aiken, S. C.

DOCTORS USE OXYGEN; 4 NURSES AT BEDSIDE

Wife Leaves Washington for South; Condition Held to Be Not Critical.

Aiken, S. C., April 7 (A.P.).—Nicholas Longworth, Speaker of the House of Representatives, has developed pneumonia and is reported by attending physicians to be in a serious condition.

Oxygen was administered by attending physicians tonight. Four nurses were assigned to his room. His physicians said they were merely taking "every precaution to prevent a crisis." It was understood here that Mrs. Longworth would arrive in Aiken at 10:15 tomorrow, presumably from Washington.

Speaker Longworth, who has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. James P. Curtis, of Washington, at their winter home here for the last ten days, contracted a cold late last week. Physicians called in late yesterday ordered him to bed. Pneumonia developed last night, they said.

Immediate Change Unlikely.

His condition is not regarded as critical at this time, and no development is anticipated for about 48 hours, attendants said.

Mrs. Longworth has been summoned.

Dr. V. P. Sidenstricker, specialist of Augusta, Ga., was called into conference by Dr. R. H. Wilds, and Dr. Thomas G. Brooks, of Aiken, today after Mr. Longworth's condition grew serious. Dr. Sidenstricker has arranged to remain with him until there is a definite turn in his condition.

Mr. Longworth [illegible] the annual visit which he pays Mr. and Mrs. Curtis about this time. While here it has been his custom to play a few holes of golf each day, but he spends most of the time in rest.

(Associated Press.)

Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, daughter of former President Theodore Roosevelt, left Washington by train late yesterday for Aiken, S. C., where her husband, the Speaker, is seriously ill with pneumonia.

Wife Will Arrive Today.

Mrs. Longworth, who as Alice Roosevelt married the youthful Cincinnati representative in the White House February 17, 1906, expected to be at the Speaker's side by tomorrow morning. Attaches of the Speaker's office said tonight their information from Aiken was to the effect that Mr. Longworth's condition had improved somewhat and that his heart action was good.

The Speaker left Washington ten days ago. Employes in the Speaker's office said that his return had been delayed by a severe cold which, however, was not believed to be serious. Speaker Longworth had been expected back Monday.

The Speaker came to Congress from the First Ohio District 28 years ago and has served continuously with the exception of the Sixty-third Congress. For the last six years he has been Speaker.

Reelection in Doubt.

The almost even division of House seats between Republicans and Democrats in the next Congress has prompted much speculation on whether Mr. Longworth would be Speaker or if his friend, Representa-

DROUGHT OFFICIALLY PROCLAIMED ENDED

Hyde, With Hoover at Elbow, Declares All Sufferers Well Provided For.

(United Press.)

The great drought of 1930 which played havoc with the economic structure of a score of States and provided Congress with some of the stormiest debates in recent history was proclaimed officially ended yesterday.

In the executive office, with President Hoover standing at his elbow, Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde announced the results of his recent tour of the drought area and his conviction that the drought relief problem has been solved.

Apparently much pleased with the reports brought back by Mr. Hyde, Mr. Hoover turned his semiweekly press conference over to the Agriculture Secretary to give a first-hand account of drought area conditions. It was the first time in the recollection of veteran White House attaches that a President has turned his office over to any one for such a purpose. As the Secretary talked, with Mr. Hoover breaking in occasionally to emphasize some point, a pouring rain was visible through the office windows—one of many downpours which have dampened Easter spirits and finery and broken the drought during the last few days.

Not only have Government loans provided the drought sufferers with seed and other things necessary to insure a crop this year, Mr. Hyde said, but the Red Cross has taken care of immediate needs so efficiently that no one is going hungry in the drought area.

"I did not find a single criticism either of the Red Cross or the seed loan administration," Mr. Hyde said. "One old man by the side of the road said the only criticism he could make was that the Red Cross fed too much. They apparently have done a splendid job."

Drought loans aggregating $27,472,000 have been made to 186,632 families, or an average of $153 per family, Hyde reported.

"The loans are being put to the best use in Tennessee, northern Mississippi, Louisiana and Arkansas," he said. "Everywhere I saw new garden fences. The ground is being prepared. They have the seed and the means for a new crop. One requirement we have made is that those who receive loans should put in gardens. In some localities the seeds are beginning to come through the ground."

In addition to the loans made directly to crop producers, Mr. Hyde said, the department is very much encouraged by the use which is being made of governmental advances to local agricultural credit corporations from the $20,000,000 rehabilitation fund.

He believes these organizations are destined to become permanent insti-

PARTY LEADERS DISAGREE OVER RASKOB LETTER

Indignation as Well as Approval Voiced by Committee.

SOUTHERN MEMBERS OPPOSE DRY ISSUE

Elizabeth Marburg, of New York, Among Those Shunning Prohibition.

(Associated Press.)

Diverse opinions were expressed yesterday by members of the Democratic national committee in response to Chairman Raskob's request for their prohibition recommendations for 1932.

Some voiced indignation over Mr. Raskob's proposal that the committee submit definite recommendations on prohibition to the 1932 conventions, while others approved his stand. The remainder expressed varying views.

Norman E. Mack, of Buffalo, Democratic national committeeman for New York, said here yesterday that after reading Mr. Raskob's letter he hoped the Democratic platform would contain a plank asking repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

"To my mind," he added, "the bottom is out of prohibition."

The opinion that prohibition is "one, not the only issue that we must settle in 1932," was expressed by Nellie Taylor Ross, vice chairman of the committee in charge of women's activities.

She Blames Racketeers.

The former Governor of Wyoming said she had not answered Mr. Raskob's letter and did not comment specifically on his "home rule" plan.

"Bootleggers and racketeers have forced upon us a situation that must be handled," she said. "The only reason I don't state my reaction specifically to the home-rule plan is that I believe the chairman's purpose has been served by submitting the plan for full and free discussion.

"Nor am I willing to smother free, Democratic expression by emphasizing my own view."

Senator Harris (Democrat), Georgia, said:

"I am not in sympathy with Mr. Raskob's views."

Other Southerners have taken the position that economic questions should not be subordinated by an intraparty controversy over the dry laws and the quicker this view is adopted the greater the party's chances in 1932.

Sham Battle, Says Norris.

Senator Norris (Republican), Nebraska, a leader of the recent Progressive conference, said Mr. Raskob was attempting to nominate a Democrat who agreed with President Hoover on economic problems, but disagrees

U. S. Agents Fight Liquor in Danville

Sweeping Drive Is Pushed, With Hearings Set for Tomorrow.

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., April 7.—The belief prevailed in Danville tonight that sweeping arrests had been made or are immediately contemplated in connection with the work of a group of Federal undercover agents who came here, it is learned, three weeks ago, to ferret out liquor law violations.

United States Commissioner C. T. Barksdale said that "the Government is not ready to make any statement, but will be prepared to do so in two days." He admitted, however, that Thursday had been set for hearings and for this reason it was assumed that arrests had been made. The city jailer denied that any Federal prisoners had been lodged in jail today. Another report was that arrests were made in Dowdytown, on the Virginia-Carolina line a few miles south of Danville, and another was that some officers operating around Danville might be involved.

France, 'Wet,' Would Head G. O. P. Ticket

Former Senator to File for Nomination in Primaries.

Baltimore, Md., April 7 (A.P.).—Former Senator Joseph I. France announced tonight that he is an anti-prohibition candidate for the Republican nomination for President in opposition to President Hoover. Dr. France, senator from Maryland from 1917 to 1923, said he would file formal notice of candidacy tomorrow with the Secretary of State at Annapolis and would enter primaries in other States.

Dr. France said in a statement that he favored the repeal of the eighteenth amendment; substitution of the concert of nations proposals he advanced when in the Senate for the League of Nations; and that he opposed extension of Government ownership and the recognition of Russia "in advance of mutually satisfactory settlements of all moral and financial questions." He said that he had as yet no promises of support.

Dr. France was one of the "irreconcilables" who fought entry of the United States into the league. He was a unique figure in a number of respects while in the Senate, opposing the eighteenth amendment, the soldiers' bonus and the four-power pact resulting from the Washington Disarmament Conference.

In 1920 he was an ardent advocate

SHOUSE HITS G. O. P. IN CAMPAIGN OPENER

Invades Corn Belt to Assail Alleged Shortcomings of Administration.

Des Moines, April 7 (A.P.).—Formally opening the campaign to send a Democrat to the White House in 1932, Chairman Shouse, of the national executive committee, invaded this normally Republican State tonight to attack the administration's handling of the farm problem and the business depression.

Speaking at a dinner under auspices of the Iowa Democratic State committee, in the heart of the agricultural belt and in President Hoover's native State, Mr. Shouse said he believed the farmers could not be "duped indefinitely by promises, the fulfillment of which was never intended."

Mr. Shouse did not mention the prohibition issue on which the party's national chairman, John J. Raskob, has demanded a stand be taken.

His speech was the first of a series he is scheduled to make during the next few weeks in the West and Far West in an attempt to win over States which have usually supported Republican candidates.

"It is only by fighting in the enemy country that the war for the manumission of the country from control by the special interests whose head and front has always been a Republican administration can be won," he said.

"Never have Democratic prospects been brighter. Never has the party in power been so demoralized, so divided."

Mr. Shouse said for a time in 1928 the Democrats thought they might win Iowa, but the situation was changed by President Hoover's campaign promises to aid agriculture.

"But what did President Hoover do?" he asked. "He tossed overboard the council of your farm leaders and he gave you the Farm Board, with a half billion dollars to dicker with, and the result is that today your products are worth about half what

ONE SLAIN, 2 SHOT BY CHICAGO ROBBER

Escaping Man Is Tackled by Loop Store Employe; Woman Slugged.

Chicago, April 7 (A.P.).—One man was fatally wounded, two others were shot and a woman was slugged and thousands of shoppers were thrown into near panic as a youthful robber tried to shoot his way to freedom in a Loop department store after snatching a package containing $1,800 from a messenger.

After a wild dash through three floors of Marshall Field & Co.'s store, the robber was halted with a flying tackle by a salesman in the store's basement. He said his name was Fred Smith, but later gave several aliases.

The three gunshot victims were wounded when Smith and James Dewey, who said he saw the youth seize a package containing the money from a messenger for a restaurant firm, exchanged shots. The package was recovered.

The fatally wounded was Casimir Krasinski, employe of a floral concern, shot in the chin. Those shot were Paul Townsend, employe of Marshall Field & Co., shot in the stomach and expected to die; Dewey, shoe in the wrist.

Mrs. Sarah Heathley, a saleswoman, was slugged by the robber when she stepped in his path, but was not hurt seriously.

Dewey, also known as Downey, was held for questioning as to why he was armed. He told police he fired at Smith when the latter darted toward the store after struggling with the messenger's guard on the elevated railroad platform on Wabash street.

Smith fired back, Dewey said, one bullet striking Krasinski and the other himself, and then fled into the store, sending a bullet into Townsend's stomach as the latter tried to halt his flight and slugging Mrs. Heathley out of his way.

As Smith raced through the second and first floors, exchanging shots with his pursuers, women screamed and several fainted. Two salesmen,

Post-Zain Ad Contest Intriguing Thousands

Parties Are Recommended to Entertain Friends Who Will Write and Select Best Compositions to Enter Into $10,000 Prize Competitions.

Wanted—Amateur ad writers, about half a million, to share $10,000 in cash and merchandise.

The Post-Zain ad writing contest today enters its third day. But it is never too late to come in. Prizes of $100, in addition to merchandise awards will be given each of the seven weeks of the contest. And there will be a grand award of $1,000 at the close.

You don't have to know how to write ads to enter our competition. Professional advertising men are barred. We want amateur ads, and any one can write them.

The rules, published elsewhere, are as simple as you will find writing the ads themselves. Any apt slogan, clever phrase, verse, testimonial or legitimate ad might win the $1,000 "grand." Please remember, though, to write each ad on a separate piece of paper, and only on one side. In the upper left-hand corner write the name of the firm you are advertising, and on the reverse side, your own name and address. You may write as many ads as you want, about as many of the advertisers in our contest as you like. You will find their names all listed elsewhere in this paper.

Why not hold a Zain party? You may find it more intensely interesting than bridge and 500—a new and original method of entertaining the friends you have in for the evening. Read them the rules of the contest, give them a few sheets of paper and some pencils, and they will do the rest. You might appoint your own committee of judges and let them select only the best ads for submission in The Post-Zain contest.

The deadline for the first week of the contest will be Wednesday, April 15, midnight. If your ads arrive after that time they automatically will be considered in the second week of the contest. Professional advertising men, constituting our board of judges, will meet April 16 and each succeeding Thursday until the contest is closed, to judge the ads. The first weekly prize of $100, and 175 prizes in merchandise, will be awarded at the close of the first week.

If you can write a letter you can write an ad. Its that easy. Most folks don't realize that each time they say something nice about an article they have purchased they are "advertising." Why not put it down in writing and send it in to The Post-Zain Ad Writing Contest Editor. And get your friends and family interested too, so that they can share in the prizes.

Above all, you should consider he especial merits of the firms about which you are writing. Call on them if necessary, to get the material for a good ad, unless of course you are already familiar with them and what they have to sell you. Jot down your "hunch" now and send it in.

Take a tip or two from the contest editor in writing an ad about Fairfax Farms Dairies, Inc., feature their "hi-test" Jersey milk, from T. B tested cows. Their Jersey milk ranks with the best and cheapest in the

EIGHT WOMEN TO BE GRILLED IN THORNE CASE

One Bandsmen Released in Marine's Death as Mystery Deepens.

MURDER MAY REVEAL LIMERICK CONNECTION

Secret Naval Autopsy Finds Additional Wounds on Body Discovered in Grave.

Eight Washington women, one described as Miss Lola Burch, all supposedly having shared in the affections of the marine private whose crushed and bullet-rent body was found Saturday in a shallow grave at Greater Capitol Heights, Md., yesterday, came into the investigation being waged by Prince Georges County and Washington authorities.

Principal developments also included release from custody of one of the two marine bandsmen held in the case, a hint that this slaying in some vague way may be linked with the yet-unsolved Beulah Limerick murder, and renewal of interest in two former marines, both friends of the dead man and now serving sentences in the District Reformatory at Lorton, Va.

The Navy Department yesterday took charge of the corpse of the murdered service man, Private Emanuel Thorne, 25 years old, who had been missing from his station at the Marine Barracks here since failure to return after a twelve-hour liberty expiring on the morning of January 17.

Secret Autopsy Held.

A secret autopsy conducted by the Navy physicians revealed that Thorne had received a fractured skull, crushed upper teeth, and a fourth bullet wound, in addition to the three bullet marks discovered in an autopsy conducted immediately after the lifeless form was discovered accidentally in a rude grave of leaves and shallow earth.

Although county authorities working on the case pursued a sullen and often belligerant attitude toward newspapermen, it was learned from a source regarded as authoritative that a Miss Lola Burch had been questioned at length on a report that she had made a date with Thorne for the night of January 16, when he last was seen alive by friends. Although rumors persisted throughout yesterday that the girl resided in Oxon Hill, Md., a check showed that no person of that name lived in that section.

Judge Joseph D. Griffith, of Forrestville, Md., who called the coroner's jury in the case Saturday, admitted yesterday that authorities had received the names of eight women said to have engagements with Thorne here on various occasions, and that "we intend to find out all they know just as quickly as possible to bring this case to a speedy conclusion." He said he did not know their names, all of which had been received by Deputy Sheriff Thomas Garrison.

Garrison Is Silent.

Garrison, however, spent the day in shaking his head to queries, stolidly refusing to comment on the report of the entry of the women into the mystery, and in denying remarks attributed to him. Particularly, he denied that he had expressed a conviction Saturday, that this murder had "some connection" with the slaying of Beulah Limerick, former Poli Theater usher, whose slain body was found here on December 31.

He made the denial after two men who figured prominently in the Limerick case arrived at Police Headquarters here early last night about the same time he arrived to confer with police officials. Both men held a short talk with police and left after about fifteen minutes.

They were Richard Reed, 23 years old, who had been the sweetheart of the Limerick girl, and her brother, David Limerick, 25 years old. Police during the Limerick investigation had arrested Reed, 25-year-old William Edward Paddy and another brother of

CERMAK WINS OVER BIG BILL BY LANDSLIDE

Democrat Given Largest Majority Ever Cast in Chicago.

THOMPSON CONCEDES, CONGRATULATES FOE

Only One of First 12 Wards Stands by Mayor in Losing Fight.

Chicago, April 7 (A.P.).—Anton J. Cermak, Democrat, was elected Mayor of Chicago today, ending the reign of Mayor William Hale Thompson.

The stocky, Bohemian-born ruler of Cook County Democracy, swept into office by the largest majority ever given a candidate for mayor of America's second city, a majority that promises to exceed 200,000.

Late reports on 2,600 out of 2,987 precincts gave:

Cermak (D.), 585,906.

Thompson (R.), 407,306.

Thompson Congratulates Victor

Mayor Thompson conceded his defeat four hours and a half after the polls had closed. He sent Mr. Cermak the following telegram:

"The people of Chicago have spoken. I cheerfully abide by their decision. I congratulate you on your victory."

As the result became certain the Democratic victory march began a parade of brooms, automobile backfires barked salute, guns roared and rumbled and flashlights lit the scene with a ghostly light.

The Democratic triumph was not complete. Peter A. Brady was elected city clerk over his Republican opponent by approximately 50,000 votes, but the two other city offices at stake were held by Republicans on incomplete returns. James A. Kearns had a 50,000 lead for city treasurer, and Edward B. Casey was 11,000 votes ahead for judge of the municipal court.

End of Stormy Reign.

Only one of the [illegible] tabulated stood by [illegible] Thompson. That was the "bloody Twentieth," locale of bloodshed and wholesale frauds three years ago—the ward of Morris Eller, Republican boss, ally of "Big Bill," and city collector. Mr. Eller's ward went for Mr. Thompson by 1,000.

For "Big Bill," the blustering, spectacular cowboy of the 10-gallon hat and the friendly smile, this was the finale. His had been a stormy succession of sensational years, and always he had been the master. Amid the heat of his last campaign he appealed to Chicago to support him, pledging that he would never ask their aid again; win or lose he was through. He lost.

Secluded with a handful of intimate friends, he watched the tide of ballots rise against him. He was not at home to the crowd.

He had fought the last fight all but alone; Democracy, united, stood for Mr. Cermak, and a divided party failed him. Civic leaders, normally Republican in faith—Julius Rosenwald, Silas Strawn, Frank J. Loesch—plied their weight against him.

To Take Office Soon.

The mayor-elect laid plans to assume command of the city as soon as an election certificate is issued by the canvassing board, and his friends intimated he might take office within the week.

"The whole world," Mr. Cermak said in a statement issued as the victory became manifest, "has been watching us and looking to this day with high hopes for our welfare. I am glad it was not disappointed. Nor shall it be disappointed in what it now expects from the new adminis-

BERENGARIA STRIKES MUD IN ENGLISH FOG

Passengers, Taken Off by Tenders, Proceed to Southampton.

Southampton, England, April 7 (A.P.).—The Cunard liner Berengaria went aground in a fog approaching Southampton tonight. She was in no danger, but her passengers were taken off and landed here in tenders, arriving about midnight.

The big ship rammed her nose into a mud bank a few miles east of Nab Tower and jerked to a stop. For two hours her engines were run full speed astern in an effort to pull her off, but the liner lay like a log, apparently aground fore and aft.

A call for tugs went out to Southampton and four went to her assistance, but the fog was so thick they were obliged to proceed slowly and it was some time before they reached the Berengaria's side.

When they did arrive they put lines aboard and tried to drag the ship off, but their combined efforts were futile. The liner was not in danger, and her passengers were given the option of remaining aboard or going ashore by tender. All but 75 chose to go ashore.

Two more tugs went to the liner's aid and it was expected that she would be floated with the high tide tomorrow morning.

Lingle Case Jurors Assail Food Story

Hold-Out Man's Charges of Bad Conditions in Room Denied.

Chicago, April 7 (A.P.).—Fellow jurors in the trial of Leo Brothers for the murder of Alfred ("Jake") Lingle, Tribune crime reporter, contradicted in statements to the Tribune today the assertion of Philip Hagerman, lone holdout for acquittal of the gunman until the final vote was taken, that unpleasant conditions and food in the jury room affected his verdict. Ten of the jurors have given the newspaper assurance the verdict was fair, and there was no doubt of Brothers' guilt.

Said Jacob M. Schlosser: "The only reason the electric chair was not considered for Brothers was the testimony of a defense witness that she saw the man who fired the gun and that it was not Brothers.

"There was no doubt that Brothers was at the scene of the slaying and was an accessory to the murder. He should have been given at least 25 years' imprisonment and Hagerman's stand was the reason he didn't get it."

Tariff as 1932 Issue Accepted by Hatfield

(Associated Press.)

The tariff was accepted last night by Senator Hatfield as an issue in the 1932 campaign. The West Virginia Republican, in a statement through the national committee, said Chairman Shouse of the Democratic national executive committee had promised the tariff would be an outstanding issue.

"The Republican party," Senator Hatfield said, "will welcome a renewal of the 100-year-old debate on the tariff, which the Democratic party has consistently and repeatedly lost. We can hope for nothing better than a clear-cut decision of the country on this matter of the tariff. We will gladly accept the challenge."

Taft's Name Is Bestowed On 'Million Dollar' Bridge

Commissioners, in Changing Title of Structure, Relate Love of Late President and Chief Justice for Graceful Rock Creek Span.

The name of the million dollar bridge which spans Rock Creek Park at Connecticut avenue just south of Calvert street was changed yesterday by the District Commissioners to "The William Howard Taft Bridge."

Known officially as the Connecticut Avenue Bridge, the structure was long an object of the late Chief Justice's admiration. He lived nearby and frequently walked across it.

A bill was introduced in Congress at last session to name the bridge in honor of the former President, but it was crowded out. As the Commissioners had approved the proposal made first by the Women's City Club on March 5, 1930, they decided to take the action without congressional authority.

The following resolution and order were adopted to effect the change:

"Whereas, the late Chief Justice William Howard Taft, whose residence was in the vicinity of the Connecticut Avenue Bridge over Rock Creek, was a great admirer of said bridge, over which it was his custom to walk several times a week, especially on Sunday afternoons, at which time he would stop to talk with friends or acquaintances and especially with groups of children whom he met;

"And, whereas, in his kindly and gracious way he would respond to these salutations and in this way his memory is associated with this particular bridge in the minds of

Patients at Hospitals Hail Post's Bridge Tournament

Players at Mount Alto and Walter Reed Institutions Begin Practice for Contest; Eric Cissel to Instruct Those Who Wish to Join Teams.

Among the many other Washington bridge players who have started practice games to enter the city's first annual bridge tournament, sponsored by The Washington Post, are the boys at Mount Alto and Walter Reed Hospitals. The announcement was a source of much gratification to them and serves to prompt the resort to tables and cards for preliminary tests of skill.

Both institutions will enter one or more team and in addition there will be individual entries. Those who are convalescent have time and opportunity to engage in friendly contests of this sort, with the result that some excellent players have been developed both at contract and at auction.

Maj. Moulson, a retired Army officer, who is a patient at Mount Alto, was delighted when the information was brought to him that the tournament would be held during the last half of the second week of May, as he expects to be able to be up by that time. He is at present confined to his bed, but with prospect of participation in a bridge tournament his condition, and especially his spirits, showed improvement. Maj. Moulson is recognized as one of the leading players in Army circles. He is a member of the New York Whist Club and has participated in its tournaments.

Eric Cissell, a well-known Washington teacher, who has given instruction to the boys at Walter Reed and Mount Alto, has been called

Calvin Coolidge Says: It will do no harm to have a reminder that when the Congress passes laws requiring the expenditure of money the people will have to pay it. When a deficit exists it must be met. Temporary borrowing by the Treasury may take care of it for the present but finally the taxpayers will come to a day of reckoning.

Raising tax rates does not now seem popular. Imposing a new levy on small incomes is anathema to those who vote large appropriations. Some legislators even boast of supporting all appropriation bills and opposing all tax bills.

But people with small incomes will pay indirectly in all they buy or use even if they pay no direct tax. They are the ones who suffer most from Government extravagance.

The present high rate of taxes, especially State and local assessments, is one of the main reasons small concerns are closing up and their business is going to chain stores and other large corporations. The overhead of taxes is so large that a small business is at a serious disadvantage. From present appearances it will be a long time before the country will get the encouragement of national tax reduction.

The election itself had proceeded under a genial spring sun that lured more than 1,000,000 voters to the booths. Calm as the spring day itself, the wards so often scenes of terrorism and fraud let the day pass with scarcely a ripple of disorder. A few arrests were made, one precinct saw its judges hauled away and then released on suspicion of fraud, but there was none of the kidnaping and slugging of other years.

Right to Abandon Bus Line Argued

Foxhall and District Enter Evidence to Retain Present Service.

The right of a transportation public utility to abandon a certain service when it is being operated at a loss was questioned yesterday at the concluding session of the Public Utilities Commission hearing on the petition of the Washington Railway & Electric Co. to do away with the Foxhall Village-Potomac Heights bus line.

William A. Roberts, acting counsel of the commission, contended that the utility can not abandon such service, while S. Russell Bowen, general counsel of the street railway, maintained that it could. The problem will be one for the commission to solve.

Much additional testimony in favor of retaining a bus service and for extending it into downtown Washington was offered by residents of Foxhall, Foxhall Village and Potomac Heights under the direction of Richmond B. Keech, the people's counsel.

EVENTS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

ARLINGTON ENGINEER GIVES WATER DATA

Letter to Committee Sets Out Mains and Plans to Improve System.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 500. Clarendon, Va.

County Engineer C. L. Kinnier, in a letter addressed to Robert E. Plymale, chairman of the sanitation and public health committee of the Arlington County Civic Federation, and made public at a meeting of the federation held last night at Lyon Park, answers the following questions on the water situation:

"Are the water mains connecting Arlington County with Dalecarlia adequate to supply the needs of the county?"

"The water-supply mains now in use between the Dalecarlia reservoir and the county reservoir at Lyonhurst, consist of a 24-inch line from Dalecarlia to the District end of the Chain Bridge, two 8-inch lines across the Chain Bridge, a 24-inch line from the Virginia end of the bridge to Fort Ethan Allen.

"From this point to our reservoir we are now supplied with a 12-inch line only. The inadequacy of this layout is not due only to the two 8-inch lines across the bridge, but to a much greater extent to the 12-inch line from Fort Ethan Allen to the Lyonhurst reservoir.

Layout Is Insufficient.

"This layout will not be sufficient to supply the needs of the county during the extremely warm spells.

"To meet the needs in so far as the two 8-inch lines across the bridge, it is proposed to replace them with a 24-inch line buried parallel to and approximately 10 feet north of the bridge until the channel is reached, when the line will rise at the pier to an independent truss and across the chamel.

Water for Falls Church.

"It is also proposed to increase the 12-inch line from Fort Ethan Allen to Lyonhurst to a 20-inch line. This line will run from the fort down the Military road to a point ni Cherrydale where it will connect with the 12-inch line. The number of water users at this time, approximately 3,200, is about twelve months ahead of the estimated growth of the territory covered by the system."

Referring to the question of providing water to the town of Falls Church, Engineer Kinnier says:

"The board of supervisors is now considering a plan of furnishing water to the town through a meter to be located at the corporate limits on the Lee highway, but no definite action has yet been reached. It is indicated that the price to be charged will be in the neighborhood of 40 cents per 1,000 gallons."

Regarding water rates to users in the county, Mr. Kinnier says:

"I am afraid that you are under the wrong impression when you mention a promised reduction of $4 per year. The Board of Supervisors received a report that I made, in which I recommended that such a reduction be made when the number of users reached 2,650. This could have been done. However, before that number of water users was reached, the board spent approximately $150,000 in making extensions to meet the emergency as a result of the drought, about $77,000 of which the water fund did not have. In my opinion, on account of this shortage, a reduction in the rate should not be made until after this over-expenditure has been repaid, or at least considerably reduced."

Class of Meters.

Replying to the class of meters in use, Mr. Kinnier says:

"The water department when water was first installed used the Empire meter, a plunger type, costing $12, and much trouble was experienced in making the house connections for $40, the rate which had been adopted.

"When the rate was reduced from the first rate of $27 to $24, a standard disc meter costing $9, was adopted. After much study, the Badger meter was adopted. This is costing the county $8. The disc meter is being used by over 90 per cent of water works. These meters are tested for accuracy before being placed in service and are required to register not over 1 per cent high and not under 4 per cent low.

This is the same type of meter used in the District of Columbia. At every reading of the meters we find a number that for one reason or another have stopped registering. In these cases we remove the meter, correct the trouble, and the water-user during that period is billed for the allowed amount of 10,000 gallons for the quarter.

On motion of F. E. Mann, delegate from Cherrydale, the federation indorsed the proposal of the county board of supervisors for an increase of 5 cents in the fire protection levy. The present 10-cent levy to go for maintenance of the fire department and the additional 5 cents for installation and maintenance of the fire hydrants

Commonwealth's Attorney William C. Gloth and G. O. Basham, special council, accompanied by Edward Duncan, B. M. Hedrick, and E. C. Turnburke, members of the county board of supervisors, county engineer C. L. Kinnier and Maj. Calvin Kephart left yesterday for Richmond where they will attend the public hearing before the State Corporation Commission on gas rates for Arlington County.

Efforts will be made for a reduction in the rates for the county. The public utilities commission of Arlington County, which has been studying the question of many months, has, it is understood, compiled much data which will be presented to the State Corporation Commission for its consideration.

Conviction Gained In 'Frame-Up' Case

New York Policeman's Counsel Hints at Surprise.

New York, April 7 (A.P.).—The first prison sentence resulting from charges that women were "framed" by police was passed today upon Sidney D. Tait, vice squad policeman. He was sent to Sing Sing for two and one-half to five years, but Judge Koenig delayed execution of the sentence for three days so the defense might investigate a mysterious situation, which, it was hinted, might prove a sensation. No information was obtainable concerning it.

Tait was convicted of perjury. "Chile" Acuna, former stool pigeon, whose revelations have caused widespread scandal, said he was the "unknown man" in the case, but Tait denied this.

Judge Koenig strongly condemned the "system" of vice arrests in New York. He said the jurors were convinced Tait was a victim of a police system which "demands a high batting average of convictions in vice cases."

VIRGINIA GIRLS DENY STORY OF KIDNAPING

Found Here, Hume Spring Hume Spring Pair Admit Playing "Hookey."

"We've been kidnaped!"

Thus did two little girls from Hume Spring, Va., explain to police of the First Precinct last night after they had been found sitting in a bus station at Twelfth street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest. An extensive search had been made for them since 8:30 o'clock yesterday morning.

The two girls, Winifred Emmons, 13years old, and Edna Cummings, also 13, are cousins. They left their homes early yesterday morning to attend classes at the George Mason School in Alexandria and failed to arrive.

Sister Recovers Pair.

When they did not return home, their parents notified Virginia police, and last night a sister of one of the girls, Mrs. Edith Saul, came to the First Precinct to report their disappearance.

As she left the stationhouse and walked toward Pennsylvania avenue, she glanced in the window of a bus terminal, and there sat the two children, tired, wet and hungry, waiting for a bus to go home.

At the police station Edna Cummings told this story:

"As Winifred and I were walking along the highway on our way to school, a gray-haired man in a big car drove up and said he would give us a ride. We had no more than gotten in, when he stopped and blindfolded us, and then tied our hands and feet. After we had been riding all day, he let us out somewhere, and we found our way to the bus station. That's all I know."

Admit Story Is Fib.

Both girls told the same story until confronted by a big policeman who said he thought they were "fibbing." That changed everything. The children started to cry and admitted that all they did was play "hookey" from school and came to Washington to go "window shopping."

All day long, the girls said, they had been riding on elevators in several big stores, and after becoming tired of looking in windows it was decided it must be near dinner time, so both went to the bus stand and were found there waiting to go home and get "a good scolding."

Farm Board's Aid To Cotton Assailed

Senator McKellar Tells Memphis Waste Is on Increase.

Memphis, Tenn., April 7 (A.P.).—Federal Farm Board support of cotton cooperatives was criticized today by Senator McKellar (Democrat), Tennessee, as governmental encroachment upon private business.

In an address prepared for delivery to the Memphis Cotton Exchange this afternoon, Senator McKellar said: "It was never intended the Government should go in the cotton business in competition with private dealers.

"Instead of preventing inefficiency and wastefulness in distribution, the cooperative associations have increased waste and inefficiency."

HOSPITAL PATIENTS HAIL POST'S BRIDGE TOURNAMENT

upon to coach some of those who are anxious to enter the contest. Mr. Gissel also stated yesterday that he would enter two or three teams from among his pupils, an all-men's team, an all-women's team and a mixed team.

In response to numerous inquiries, the committee on arrangements which has charge of the tournament has announced that the play will be conducted in accordance with the rules and regulations of the Knickerbocker Whist Club of New York, which is recognized everywhere as the supreme court of bridge. In most of the leading clubs, as well as in tournaments generally, the dictum of the Knickerbocker Club is accepted, as its rules and methods have been worked out after long and careful study of the game by the leading American authorities on both contract and auction. Practice games among the entering teams, however, generally will be played open, although in some instances where rival teams will meet in practice duplicate boards will be used.

The play in duplicate is necessary in the tournament contest, as it is by that method that the element of luck is reduced to a minimum, and each team is thus afforded an opportunitey to play with the same hands as every other team. Duplicate rules will be followed both in contract and in auction. These rules will be explained from time to time as the preliminaries for the tournament progress. They are simple when once understood and need cause no confusion in the play, as they do not in any way affect the skill of the player. They are necessary only for the orderly and fair conduct of a contest of this character.

Authority on Tournaments.

A. Philip Stockvis, the chairman of the committee on arrangement, besides being an expert at the game, is also an authority on the method of conducting tournaments, and is making the system easily comprehended to those who have not had experience in such events.

Miss Mary A. Beadle, who is also a teacher and has taken part in some of the big events in New York and elsewhere, is likewise well versed in tournament programs, and is assisting Mr. Stockvis in acquainting the uninitiated with the practice to be followed. Tournament play is well calculated to improve the game even of advanced players, and many who are entering are anxious to gain this knowledge and experience.

Thus far entrants are fairly well divided between contract and auction, and the same thing is true with respect to the listings for the two different classes. Entrants need have no fear about their ability to find competent partners and teammates in the event that they enter singly.

Tournament Plan Pleases.

"At last Washington bridge players are to have a tournament," said Mrs. George King, jr., who has been teaching the various forms of bridge for the past twelve or fourteen years. "My own experience has shown me that there are as many good bridge players in Washington as in any other city of its size in the country, and probably more, since the class of people who reside here is such that they are given to that form of amusement.

"Why we have never had a tournament before I have not been able to understand. I congratulate The Post upon its enterprise, and am happy to say that my pupils will enter the tournament. There can be no question about its success. The preliminary practice which is afforded will be very beneficial."

The entrance blank is printed daily in The Post. Do not delay in filling it out. Send it to the Bridge Editor of The Post, indicating the form of the game you wish to take part in, whether contract or auction, and also check the classification which you wish made.

The dates are May 14, 15 and 16, and the place the New Shoreham Hotel.

Too much ACID

Many people, two hours after eating, suffer indigestion as they call it. It is usually excess acid. Correct it with an alkali. The best way, the quick, harmless and efficient way, is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained for 50 years the standard with physicians. One spoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume in stomach acids, and at once. The symptoms disappear in five minutes.

You will never use crude methods when you know this better method. And you will never suffer from excess acid when you prove out this easy relief. Please do that—for your own sake—now.

Be sure to get the genuine, prescribed by doctors for conditions due to excess acid. It is always a liquid; it cannot be made in tablet form. Look for the name Phillips' and the word genuine in red.

GLEAMY WHITE TEETH AND A SWEET BREATH

Try Phillips' Dental Magnesia Tooth-paste just once and see for yourself how white your teeth become. Write for a free ten-day tube. Address The Phillips Co., 170 Varick St., New York, N. Y.

RAIL TAX EXEMPTION MEASURE IS FOUGHT

Veto of Bill Affecting Firm in Anne Arundel County Will Be Asked.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., April 7.—Stirred by the action of the General Assembly in passing, over the protest of its representatives, the bill to exempt the Washington, Baltimore & Annapolis Electric Railway, now in receivership, from all taxation for a two-year period, the Anne Arundel County Commissioners today served notice that they will urge Gov. Ritchie to veto the measure. Accordingly, a letter was addressed to the governor asking for a hearing before he takes it up for final action.

With one exception, the county's representatives opposed the bill. Delegate Irving E. Turner was the only one to vote for it. The bill, brought up for final action in the closing hours of the session yesterday, barely obtained the constitutional majority of 60 votes to approve it. The necessary vote to make that majority was cast by Delegate McFarlane, Allegany County, who voted at the close of the regular roll call.

Municipal authorities will join those of the county in the effort to have the bill vetoed. The possibility of obtaining a referendum also is being discussed. This would require a petition signed by 10,000 voters of Anne Arundel and Prince Georges Counties and Baltimore City, the areas chiefly affected. Officials point out that the county's loss in taxes will be $25,000 a year and that of the city, $5,000.

Court Is Opened At Martinsburg

Judge W. E. Baker, Elkins, Presides as Federal Term Is Started.

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., April 7.—Judge W. E. Baker, of Elkins, opened the spring term of Federal Court this morning, the term to be concluded within the week. The grand jury was in session today, the petit jury being called for tomorrow.

In his charge to the grand jury Judge Baker had severe criticism of those citizens who violate a law because they do not agree with it.

The grand jury was composed of L. C. Hoffman, Berkeley County, foreman; I. M. Russell, Jefferson; Wade McKee, Mineral; C. A. Garrett, Hardy; C. P. Brown, Jefferson; Clarence L. Everhart, Mineral; O. H. Harper, Pendleton; Clayton Wellel, Berkeley; Lafayette Wilkins, Hardy; M. Casper, Hardy; C. O. Byrd, Mineral; Heber Parsons, Hampshire; Benjamin Mitchell, Pendleton; David C. Unger, Morgan; Henry Heller, Berkeley; William E. Fisher, Hardy; E. G. Kimmell, Mineral.

DRY GROUP ASSAILS HENRY W. ANDERSON

National United Committee Challenges His Speeches on Liquor Issue.

That an appeal has been made directly to President Hoover by the National United Committee for Law Enforcement to "silence or suspend" Col. Henry W. Anderson, member of the Wickersham Commission, became known yesterday when the text of a letter to the President from Clinton N. Howard, chairman of the dry organization, regarding Col. Anderson's activities, was made public.

Combined with the appeal to curb Col. Anderson's advocacy of the plan of Government control or sale of liquor is a notice that Mr. Howard's organization expects to support Mr. Hoover in 1932, as it did in 1928, "if the Republican party stands by the Constitution and enforces the eighteenth amendment."

Distressed by Addresses.

The letter then continues:

"We are greatly distressed by the addresses which are being delivered and widely published by Col. Anderson, a member of your commission in the promotion of Government control (sale) as a substitute for prohibition.

"We wish to enter a solemn protest against a member of your official family promoting a public policy not included in the recommendations of the commission, and believed to be contrary to the policy of the administration, before Congress has taken any action on the report."

In its current bulletin the National United Committee head terms Col. Anderson "the most dangerous proponent of the liquor traffic in America."

Right Is Challenged.

"I challenge his right," Mr. Howard goes on to say, "while a member of the President's Law Enforcement Commission, to exploit his personal views in opposition to the commission's report and advocate a plan in violation of the Constitution. It is a betrayal of the Constitution and a betrayal of President Hoover who is committed to the enforcement of the eighteenth amendment."

The bulletin closes with a notice captioned, "Raskob Next," and states that the next issue "will be devoted to John J. Raskob and his 'skull and crossbones' plan to bring back the saloon without repealing the eighteenth amendment."

WIFE OF DRUGGIST BAILED IN SHOOTING

Mrs. Varty Posts $100 Bond; Hyattsville Is Fighting Proposed Jail.

Mrs. Robert E. Varty, of University Park, is free on bond of $100 on a charge of shooting her husband, who is said to be the proprietor of a drug store in Congress Heights. The man received only a slight wound in the right shoulder.

The alleged attack occurred at their home Monday night. The wife claims that she shot in self-defense and exhibited a bruise on her face.

Mrs. Varty showed a powder burn on her arm received when the gun was fired, according to police. She is being held pending the outcome of her husband's injuries.

At Providence Hospital, where the wounded man was taken, it was said that his condition was not serious and that he would be able to leave the institution shortly. After the shooting, it is said, Dr. Varty ran to the home of a neighbor, who dressed the wound.

The Hyattsville Town Council has passed an ordinance forbidding any "person, or corporate body" from maintaining a jail in that town without a permit, and has sent a copy of the law to the Prince Georges Board of County Commissioners.

The bill was accompanied by a letter protesting against using part of the First National Bank Building for a jail, and the new measure is seen as an effort to prevent this use. The Hyattsville ordinance exempts from the law the small lock-up now maintained in the rear of the Municipal Building there.

A law just passed by the Legislature provides that the county commissioners shall rent a suitable building in the vicinity of Hyattsville to house the police court and other county offices. The new police law provides that a police substation shall be maintained in the north end of the county, to be open at all times.

The present Bladensburg Jail, with its record of eight escapes in three months, is unsuitable for use, and yet it works a hardship on minor criminals to be taken to Marlboro from the metropolitan area. The bank building is thought to be the most suitable building in the neighborhood to serve as a county structure.

The current rains have brought their first complaint about flooding of roads in the county, eleven residents of Branchville having complained to the Prince Georges County Commissioners about the road east of the Indian Creek Laundry. They claim that the road is flooded during times of high water.

M. Hampton Magruder, attorney for the commissioners, was instructed to write to the persons who have built a fence across the west end of the Sellman road, closing it to the public. A complaint about the bridge on the Mulkirk-Odell road was received from Robert J. Huston, secretary of the Vansville district road committee.

A delegation appeared before the board asking that $2,000 be appropriated for the construction of the Suitland-Bradbury Heights road. Action was postponed until a report is received from the road committee on the cost of this project. L. J. Harnson complained of the bridge on the Mayhew road, half a mile south of Suitland, and was referred to the road committee in that district.

Joseph P. Sheriff, George N. Cox and Clarence A. Phelps were appointed a board of examiners to report on the necessity of taking over the old Fort Washington road and the Temple Mill road. The Fort Washington road will be about 3 miles long. A delegation composed of Mrs. Harry Andre, Mrs. George Harding and Mrs. Daniel Rice appeared to stress the advisability of taking over the Temple Mill road, which is between Marlboro and the old Alexandria road.

The commissioners received $3,731.51 from the police court, the county's share of $6,202.10 in fines collected during the last month. The remainder will go to the State.

A total of 297 cases were heard in the court, 197 of them appearing in the Hyattsville court. Marlboro had 72 more, and Laurel had 19.

A complaint was received from the Hyattsville Ice & Fuel Co. about alleged dumping of refuse on their property. It was referred to Andrew Gasch, constable in that district.

A mass meeting will be held in Riverdale tonight at the Sunday school of the Presbyterian Church to protest against the proposed removal of the station agent in that town. The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad plans to discontinue the agent at this station on April 20, and a hearing on their request will be held on April 15 before the Maryland Public Service Commission.

Tonight's meeting has been called by Mayor Max Vollberg, who desires to organize the public sentiment against the change.

Funeral services were held yesterday at Pinkney Memorial Church for Paul Glaze, 6-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis W. Glaze, of Hyattsville. The child died Monday of pneumonia, which followed an attack of measles. He was in the first year at the Hyattsville Graded School.

BRIDGE APPROACH WILL BE CORRECTED

Montgomery County Orders Conditions Remedied at Gaithersburg.

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post, 9103 Conn. Ave., North Chevy Chase, Md. Telephone Wisconsin 4205.

Early correction of the dangerous condition at the north end of the Gaithersburg bridge over the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad was indicated yesterday when the Montgomery County Commissioners authorized Commissioner John B. Diamon, jr., in charge of the Gaithersburg District, to take steps to acquire the needed land for right of way. The property probably to be involved will be that of Buell Gardner, Thomas Cloyd and the Rosendell brothers.

Commissioner Diamond is expected to have a survey made. Negotiations will then be started with the owners.

The Town Council of Gaithersburg, the Chamber of Commerce and other civic and business organizations have petitioned the commissioners for an early correction of the situation. The narrow road which the traffic over the bridge meets at that point, it is declared, constitutes an extremely dangerous traffic situation.

The resignation of Capt. Joseph C. Cissel as counsel to the county commissioners was accepted by the commissioners and the newly formed law firm of Whiteforo & Cissel was appointed to the post. Capt. Cissel is a member of the firm with Roger J. Whiteford as the other member.

The bond of J. A. P. Farnham as treasurer of the Bethesda Volunteer Fire Department in the sum of $13,000 with the Hartford Accident and Indemnity Co. as surety was approved.

The report of Judge A. L. Wilson, of the Takoma Park Police Court, for the month of March was received. Judge Wilson reported fines and costs collected amounting to $22. The sum of $10 was deducted from this to be forwarded to the commissioner of motor vehicles at Baltimore and the balance applied to the county police fund.

Appointment of a representative to act with representatives of other communities along the Conduit road to confer with merchants along the road in an effort to stop sale of cigarettes to school children was decided upon at the April meeting of the Cabin John Park Citizens Association. A. C. Wilkins, chairman of the committee on education and legislation, was appointed to act in this capacity.

The association voted to contribute $25 to the Montgomery County Social Service League and $1 to the fund to supply hot lunches to needy children, which is sponsored by the Parent-Teacher Association of the Glen Echo-Cabin John School. Capt. Ellis R. King gave a detailed report on the proposed widening of Conduit road in the District. The association discused the formation of a publicity committee and asked the county commissioners to effect some minor repairs on the town's streets.

5 Maryland Bank Suspects Nabbed

Young Woman Is Among Those Arrested in Ridgely Robbery.

Denton, Md., April 7 (A.P.).—Five persons, one a young woman, were under arrest tonight suspected of implication in the $1,900 bank robbery in Ridgely March 16. The men were taken by State police in widely scattered sections of Delaware, and the woman was held in jail here. She was given a hearing before a magistrate yesterday on a charge of "breaking, entering, and robbing the Bank of Ridgely." Bail was set at $20,000 which she was unable to furnish. Her second appearance before the magistrate has been set for May 1.

The woman, red-haired, gave her name as Mrs. Clara Gordon, but the sheriff said she had several aliases and had residences in Wilmington, Del., and Kennet Square, Pa. She was apprehended yesterday and was suspected of connection with a gang of safeblowers and robbers. She also was accused of bank robbery at Hailey, Del.

The men held were Joseph Reynolds, Bellevue; George Blanchfield, and Jerome Skaggs, Townsend, and Chester Leach, Smyrna. Leach was held in $15,000 bail at Dover for extradition to Denton. The others waived extradition.

Man Withstands 2 Acidents in Day

David P. Thomas Falls at Bowie; Later Rescue Car Hits Curb.

David P. Thomas demonstrated yesterday that, despite his 56 years, he can take many a bump before they make much of an impression. Yesterday he was cut about the head when he slipped and fell at the Bowie Race Tract. After being given first aid by Dr. G. E. Lancaster, track physician, he was placed in the Glendale Rescue Squad car, and Earle W. Woods, the 19-year-old driver, set out for the victim's home, at 508 D street southeast.

All went well until the squad car, proceeding south on Third street, approached the corner of East Capitol street. As Woods explained when it was all over, he thought a certain auto was going to cross East Capitol street in front of him and he put on the brakes. His car skidded on the wet pavement, ran against the surb and turned on its side.

When a District Rescue Squad car arrived at the scene, not only was Woods found to be uninjured but Thomas was none the worse. He was, however, taken to Casualty Hospital and later was allowed to leave.

As a climax Mr. Bishop used three of his latest photo-flash tubes to show how photographs are taken at night with their aid. A glow tube was used through the entire demonstration, and various feats were performed by one of the Rotarians pressing his hands on a plate of glass, such as the ringing of a bell, the turning on of lights in various parts of the dining room and lastly, the photo-flash exhibition.

The speaker was introduced by Rotarian "Abe" Martin, who arranged for the program.

Secretary Cross reports on the district meeting at Norfolk, and asked the Rotarians to sign up for the trip, which will be made in May. Club singing was led by Everett Swan, with Mrs. Anna Meeks at the piano.

Judge William P. Woolls, of the corporation court, informed the club of the need of funds for the purchase of the new building for the Day Nursery and Children's Home, and urged the members to get behind the project. DR. W. S. BAER DIES; WAS NOTED SURGEON

Stroke of Paralysis Is Fatal to Famed Specialist at Baltimore.

Baltimore, April 7 (A.P.).—Dr. William S. Baer, internationally known orthopedic surgeon, died today of the effects of a stroke of paralysis he suffered Sunday at Rehoboth Beach, Del. He was 59 years old.

Dr. Baer was a member of the faculty of Johns Hopkins Medical School for 32 years, and his name was connected with a number of medical discoveries.

The most recent was the result of his service in France as chief orthopedic consultant of the American Expeditionary Forces. He found that the grub of the blue bottle fly would clear up deep-seated infections of the bone that defied all other methods of treatment.

Dr. Baer told of the discovery at a meeting of the Interstate Medical Association at Detroit in 1929 after he had tested the effect of the grub for years. Mount Alto, Veterans' Bureau Hospital at Washington, was made a training center for the method.

Recently the grub method has been tested in treating tuberculosis of the bone.

Dr. Baer went to France with the A. E. F. in May, 1917, and saw active service until the end of the war. His reputation was established long before the war, especially for his work among children.

An operation he performed more than fifteen years ago was regarded as among the most remarkable in surgery. He broke the jaw bones of a boy in his teens who had been born without joints, chisled joints and made the child normal.

Dr. Baer was born in Baltimore in 1872 and was educated at Johns Hopkins. His widow, who was Miss Ruth Adams, of New Haven, Conn., and two brothers survive.

FAIRFAX SCHOOLS' BILLS TO BE PAID

Sale of Unused Property in Dranesville District Ordered by Board.

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST,
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Clarendon 2324-W-2.

The Fairfax County School Board held its regular meeting yesterday in the board room of the Fairfax County Courthouse. Bills totaling $4,837.33 was ordered paid. The board authorized the divisional superintendent of schools to arrange for the necessary court sanction for the selling of an unused school property in Dranesville District, including Colvin Run School.

Supt. Wilbert T. Woodson informed the board that there was a rumor circulating throughout the county that the State Board of Education had appropriated $1,000 for the beautification and improvement of school grounds in the county. He branded this rumor as false, stating that the State board had merely offered the services of a landscape engineer for the improvement of the school grounds.

A communication was read from the State Board of Education inviting the county to send school janitors to a special janitors school, which is to be conducted by the State this summer.

A large portion of yesterday's session was devoted to discussion of the opinion handed down last week by the Virginia State Board of Appeals relative to the blanket reductions of the new real estate assessments made by the Boards of Tax Equalization and Review. The opinion was rendered in a case from Lynchburg, Va.

Last year all real estate in Fairfax County was reassessed at a value of approximately 50 per cent of its actual value. The State officials urged the new method of assessment giving local authorities an idea that the holdings of public utilities and corporations on which the State Corporation Commission makes the assessment, would be raised accordingly. This was not done and when the local board of equalization found this out they reduced all private valuations one-third of their assessed values. The total value of the original assessment in the county was $17,218,574. The county board of supervisors, relying on the reductions made by the equalization board, made the county and district tax rates on the reduced valuation. If the opinion of the court of appeals was made effective in Fairfax County under the rates adopted at the regular meeting of the local board, it would raise approximately $140,000 more than actually needed for county expenses for the coming year. This would cause property owners to pay approximately 50 per cent more taxes than they have paid heretofore.

If any individual taxpayer in Fairfax County files suit under this ruling of the appeals court claiming he had been discriminated against, Judge Walter T. McCarthy of the county circuit court would have to follow the opinion handed down in the Lynchburg case, causing a great increase in taxes this fall. The school board members expressed themselves as satisfied with the present arrangements, stating that they hoped the ruling would not be applied in the county.

The school auditorium will be decorated by Gladys Henderson, Ruby Herring, Virginia Cardley, Rebekah Emswiller, Patsy Johns, Charlotte Rowe, Louise Miller, Lona Williams, Virginia Thompson, Florence Money and Alice Fitzhugh.

COURT HEARS MUSIC IN ROYALTIES SUIT

Capital Expert Doubts That Virginia Man Composed "Wreck of Old 97."

Camden, N. J., April 7 (A.P.).—Judge John Boyd Avis came down from the bench in U. S. District Court, Camden, today and listened to a phonograph play, "The Wreck of the Old 97," "The Ship That Never Came Back" and "The Departed Lover."

The musical interlude was all part of the evidence in the suit of David G. George, of Pittsylvania County, Va., who is suing the Victor Talking Machine Co., of Camden, for royalties on the records of "The Wreck of the Old 97," contending he is the composer of the music.

The company's attorneys played the records in an attempt to prove the similarity of the music of the three songs.

This was done after Sigmund Spaeth, of New York, and R. W. Gordon, of Washington, experts in mountain folk lore, testified they doubted that George composed the music.

SHIP SAILS TO STOP REVOLT AT MADEIRA

Portugal Sends 600 Troops Against Funchal to Recover Island.

Lisbon, Portugal, April 7 (A.P.).—Determined to avoid bloodshed, if possible, in putting down a military revolt at Funchal, Madeira, the government nevertheless today continued its preparations to recover the island capital by force, if that should prove necessary.

The transport Pedro Gomez, with 600 troops, sailed this morning, after having been delayed several hours by mechanical difficulties. The gunboat Zaire convoyed her. Tomorrow the transport Jurango will leave with four seaplanes and a regiment of artillery, and on Thursday the transport Lima will sail for Funchal.

Before the Pedro Gomez sailed, President Cormona went aboard and exhorted the soldiers to do their utmost for the national honor. It was understood that the airplanes would fly over Funchal before the troops landed and that an effort would be made to persuade the rebels to surrender.

Today the government issued an official denial of reports that the revolt had extended to the Azores, but strict censorship was still imposed on messages to and from Funchal.

POST-ZAIN AD CONTEST INTRIGUING THOUSANDS

country. It can not be purchased at stores.

You should have little trouble in writing an ad about Wardman Park Hotel or the Carlton Hotel, cooperating in our contest. The exclusive nature of the Carlton is known to all Washingtonians, almost as well as the high quality of service and patronage to be found at Wardman. In Washington, a hotel city, these two stand out.

The Steuart Motor Co., largest of Washington's many dealers in Ford automobiles, wants you to try your hand at writing an ad or two about their sales and service, and this should be easy. With spring here again, everybody is thinking in terms of new automobiles; when you think of automobiles, you think of Ford, and when you think of Ford you think of Steuart. How's that? And we never wrote an ad before either.

The Potomac Electric Power Co. is another Washington firm participating in The Post-Zain contest, and surely no firm is more generally known in Washington households, where all you have to do is push an electric button these days to get "matchless service." Try your hand at this. You might journey down to Tenth and E streets and take a look at their fine new home before you write your ad.

If spring is the season for automobiles, it is also the widely advertised season when a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love. And diamond rings sometimes follow. For 57 years Goldsmith & Co., jewelers at 1225 F street northwest, have been pleasing engaged couples, but their jewelry service, as you know, is not confined to this line. Goldsmith & Co. should be a good subject for one of your ads.

RULES FOR CONTEST

1—$10,000 in prizes to be distributed over seven weeks of amateur ad writing.

2—$1,000 in cash will be given for the best ad written by an amateur during the entire Post-Zain ad-writing campaign. To compete for this prize it will be necessary for contestants to write at least one ad about each of the 35 firms participating in the ad contest.

3—Grand weekly award of $100 will be given each week for the best ads during six periods of the ad-writing contest.

4—Five merchandise prizes for each of the 35 concerns will be given weekly during six weeks of the campaign.

5—Ads for the first week of the Post-Zain ad-writing campaign must be received prior to noon, Wednesday, April 15.

6—Ads submitted in competition for the grand award of $1,000 must be received prior to midnight, May 27.

7—Anyone anywhere may compete for the prizes with the exception of newspaper employes and members of the advertising profession.

8—There are no obligations. No coupons to clip, no entrance fees to pay, no subscriptions to buy. One person may submit as many ads as he chooses. The more ads you write, the more prizes you may receive. The Post-Zain ad-writing contest may be entered at any time. Ads may be written about one or all concerns.

9—Write your ideas on one side only of a sheet of paper at least twice the size of a postcard. Place the name of the concern about which you are writing in the upper left-hand corner of the page. Place your own name and address, also telephone number, on the reverse of the advertisement and the envelope. Your contribution may be a slogan, a poem, a regular advertisement, a letter of testimonial, or an essay.

10—Winning advertisements will be selected by a committee of advertising experts. In the event of a tie, awards will be made to both.

11—All advertisements received become the property of the concerns about which they are written.

Ad-Writing Suggestions.

Prizes are given for ideas, not for grammar, spelling, punctuation, art work or layout.

Your ideas are likely to be new and original; your idea may win one or more prizes.

If you are not familiar with the advertisers about whom you are asked to write ads, study their service and merchandise; visit their shops, ask questions, and then jot down your ideas simply. Be brief and to the point.

If you can write a letter, you can write an ad. Get members of your family and your friends interested. Encourage them to write winning ads.

PAN-AMERICAN DAY OBSERVANCE ASKED

Gov. Pollard Issues Formal Statement Requesting Virginia to Comply.

Richmond, Va., April 7 (A.P.).—Gov. Pollard today called upon the people of Virginia to participate in the observance of Pan-American Day, April 14.

The governor's formal statement regarding the day follows:

"Through resolution recently adopted at Washington by the Pan-American Union April 14 will be observed this year as Pan-American Day, when it is designed throughout the United States and in all of the other American republics to have the national colors flown on public buildings.

"A proclamation indorsing the resolution adopted by the Pan-American Union and calling for a display of the United States flag on all Federal buildings on the day mentioned, has been issued by President Hoover. Similar proclamations, I am informed, have issued from presidents of each of the other American republics.

"The Pan-American Union is a body composed of ambassadors and ministers at Washington from the several republics in Central and South America, together with the Secretary of State in the present administration. The proposed display of national emblems is an international movement to emphasize the friendly relations existing between the countries party to the agreement.

"Added significance will be lent the first annual observance of Pan-American Day in the United States by addresses from President Hoover, Secretary of State Stimson and the Mexican Ambassador at exercises in Washington at noon on the day set aside. These addresses will be broadcast over the Nation.

"It is hoped that all State and public buildings in Virginia will take part in observing Pan-American Day by a proper display of national and State colors.

GEORGE V'S ILLNESS HELD COLD IN CHEST

Public Somewhat Relieved as Queen Mary Goes Motoring as Usual.

Windsor, England, April 7 (A.P.).—Alarmed by an official statement that King George was suffering from subacute bronchitis, the public was relieved somewhat tonight by published opinions from medical authorities to the effect that his illness commonly is a cold in the chest.

Tonight it was stated authoritatively there was no change in his majesty's condition but that Dr. Henry Martyn had visited the patient in the evening.

The fact that Queen Mary went motoring this afternoon was taken as indication that there is no cause for alarm. At dinner in the castle this evening an Irish Guards band played as usual.

Princess Mary and her husband, Lord Harewood, will reach the castle tomorrow with their two sons.

Public anxiety was further relieved by the issuance of a court circular saying that the Duke of Gloucester, who has been staying with his father, had left Windsor Castle and was returning to London.

Meanwhile, the king continued to show slow progress, remaining in his apartments and perusing State papers. Physicians attending him theorized that the indisposition was contracted on the trip from Buckingham Palace to Windsor, the window of his automobile being open part of the journey.

Today's communique was understood not to be a "bulletin" since it was not signed. Lord Dawson, of Penn, physician ordinary to the king, visited his patient in the afternoon and later returned to London. Dr. Henry L. Martyn is remaining in attendance as well as the queen and members of the household staff.

SHOUSE OPENS DRIVE FOR PARTY IN IOWA

they brought when he undertook to place agriculture on a parity with industry and the whole business of farming is accordingly prostrate.

"The sum total of 20 months of effort by Mr. Hoover's Farm Board is that you are advised to cut down your acreage."

Mr. Shouse said the Republican administration had been "as ineffective in dealing with the general business depression as it has been in dealing with the farm problem."

Recent Government figures, he added, show that unemployment instead of diminishing during the past year has increased 149 per cent.

"During all of this time the President has had a huge majority in both houses of Congress," Mr. Shouse said. "If he had in mind any constructive program or any sincere policy for the betterment of conditions nothing stood in the way of their enactment.

"Yet there is on the statute books no concrete legislation for the public good, except two of the three unemployment measures created by a Democrat, Senator Wagner, of New York."

Mr. Shouse called upon his Democratic friends to "make converts of your Republican neighbors."

"It ought not to be a difficult task," he said. "Republican demoralization is indicated on every hand."

Easton, Md., April 7.—About 7:30 tonight the furnace in the basement of the home of Mayor William Hermon Hopkins, Goldsborough and Harrison streets, exploded and set fire to his house. The fire spread rapidly and in a few minutes the entire woodwork in the basement was afire, as well as the partitions which lead to the main floor.

CONFEDERATES PLAN REUNION IN VIRGINIA

Forty-fourth Session to Be Held in Charlottesville June 23, 24 and 25.

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., April 7.—The forty-fourth reunion of the Grand Camp of Confederate Veterans, Department of Virginia, will be held here June 23, 24, and 25.

This announcement was made here today, following a meeting of representatives of the Grand Camp and officers of the John Bowie Strange Camp, Confederate Veterans, and of the R. T. W. Duke, Jr., Camp, Sons of Veterans.

The following statement was given out by the Rev. W. Roy Mason, commander of the local camp of Sons of Veterans and general chairman of the committee on arrangements:

"In the selection of a date for holding the 1931 reunion of the Grand Camp, Confederate Veterans, the committee of arrangements had in view the few remaining veterans who are physically able to attend, the passing of each day making the number less, and who are looking forward with so much interest and pleasure to this reunion which to many will be the last they will ever attend.

"Charlottesville people love the gray, honor the cross, and cherish an ever-enduring love for the cause, and we welcome you to this historic city and to the hearts and homes of this appreciative and waiting people."

Freighter Has Unique Record.

New Orleans, April 7 (U.P.).—Unique among freighters is the Labette, of the Dixie Steamship Co. In three years only 1 member of its crew of 31 has been an alien. C. A. Soyland, master, in commenting on his all-American crew, said he believed Americans made the most intelligent sailors.

BIG BILL BEATEN.

The voters of Chicago have done good work in wiping out Big Bill Thompson. His smashing defeat ought to signalize a new era for Chicago, in which decent citizens will have some chance to carry on business without paying death taxes to racketeers.

Anton J. Cermak, Democrat, who has laid Thompson low, was an immigrant. In the rough and tumble of life in Chicago he established a good reputation, besides developing attractive qualities which made him popular with the voters. He was viciously and unjustly maligned by Mayor Thompson during the campaign, but wisely refrained from retaliating with personal abuse. Cermak's attainments may not be such as to qualify him as a statesman, but he possesses common sense, and he at least afforded Chicagoans an opportunity to register their disapproval of the brawler who has made the city a butt of ridicule.

Mayor Thompson employed threadbare tactics of noise and abuse in trying to offset Cermak's appeal to reason and orderly administration of the city. Braggadocio and bluff were overplayed by Thompson's henchmen, with not a little admixture of threats and strong-arm methods. The old "hokum" failed to arouse the enthusiasm of voters, who had finally become aware of the damage which Thompson was doing to the city.

Mayor-elect Cermak has a giant's task confronting him in trying to clean up Chicago. He may fail; but his intentions are good, and a valiant effort on his part may bring about a consolidation of decent elements with power to accomplish much. The fact that Republicans in huge numbers supported Cermak proves that the city campaign was of no significance nationally, while it also demonstrates that Republicans rebelled against Thompson's capitalization of the party organization. The new mayor will go into office with a mandate from all parties to establish a new and clean regime. It is a wonderful opportunity to perform public service, and Americans everywhere will hope that Mr. Cermak will prove equal to his task.

IN DEFENSE OF PEACE.

Army Day was celebrated on April 6 throughout the United States in various ways that foster a clearer understanding of the land forces comprising the National Guard and Organized Reserves as well as the Regular Army. There is a better realization of the character of the citizen organizations that form the background and nucleus in time of peace for emergency service in time of need. These organizations are not composed of professional fighters or trouble hunters, but just average, every-day patriotic Americans.

Observance of Army Day once a year brings appreciation of the fact that the greatest organized force in this country for peace are the men who participated in the World War. They know from actual experience the awfulness of war, and that the plan for immediate mobilization of all the resources of this country in time of need—man power, money power, manufactures and all material resources—proposes the greatest factor for peace the world has ever seen.

It is not the man in good physical condition, assured of his strength and ability to defend himself, who starts a quarrel. It is the weakling and the bully who shoot in fear and knowledge of their unworthiness, their only care being to select victims for attack who are not prepared to exact retributive justice. Lack of preparedness did not keep the United States out of the Mexican War, but it did cost thousands of lives. Lack of preparedness was actually responsible for precipitating the United States into the World War. Germany never would have driven the United States to war if it had been believed that any such force as the A. E. F. could be sent to the relief of the allied armies.

It ought not to be hard for intelligent Americans to understand that preparedness is insurance against war; that until all nations are as free from racial antipathies and covetousness as is this vast Nation, evident weakness is the surest way to trouble.

In two-thirds of the States the governors issued proclamations or public statements this year calling for recognition of the anniversary. This served to spread information regarding the importance of the Army and the various services it also renders in peace times in engineering work, aviation, relief, chemical service, medical research, and other ways not always considered. Secretary of War Hurley, speaking of the Army, said: "It has few opportunities to experience a Nation-wide expression of trust and reliance. Army Day created such an opportunity. Inaugurated upon the anniversary of the commencement of our entry into the World War, it focuses the attention of America upon how our national defense is maintained."

It is necessary, in view of active counter efforts, to make it plain as often as possible that our men in uniform and their advocates believe only in adequate defense. No more sincere champions of national welfare and peace can be found than the officers and men who served in the great war. They consistently sponsor a national awakening to the necessity of defending peace.

VETERANS' NEW DEMANDS.

Commander Ralph T. O'Neil's announcement of a new extensive program of veterans' legislation to be urged by the American Legion in the next Congress is, to say the least, disquieting. President Hoover has pointed out that approximately $900,000,000 will be spent next year to take care of veterans and their dependents. This does not include funds for veterans' bonus loans. Nearly one-fourth of the entire national budget is going for the welfare of former soldiers. The United States has been far more liberal with its veterans than any other country in the world.

In addition to increasing the bonus loan privileges at the last session, Congress appropriated nearly $21,000,000 for veterans' hospitals. Former service men are to be hospitalized, whether or not their ailments may be traced to war service. Veterans Administrator Hines urgently requested Congress to reduce the disability compensation of veterans while they undergo hospital treatment (or in the case of married veterans to turn over part of the allowance to their families) because veterans' hospitals have been made so attractive that men do not want to leave. Hundreds of veterans are settling down to spend their lives in soldiers' homes, because the Government pays their living expenses and gives them a liberal allowance. They have no incentive to become self-reliant. Congress did not take Gen. Hines' advice. Mr. O'Neil demands higher disability compensation, and more relief for wives and children of hospitalized veterans; and in many cases this relief should be given.

The country is already facing higher taxes or an increase in the national debt, partly because of the liberality of Congress to veterans during its last session. Mr. O'Neil contends that the increased bonus loan did not contribute to the present deficit. But it is evident that the Veterans' Bureau will be called upon to supply about $1,000,000,000 for loans. Even after the Treasury has marketed all the securities in the veterans' reserve fund, it will have only about $750,000,000 to meet this demand and the payment of death claims. Congress made no appropriation for this purpose. The remainder must be supplied by increasing the national debt.

Rigid economy in all departments will be necessary next year. It will be impossible for Congress to comply with the projected demands of the American Legion without placing a heavier burden upon the people. But a presidential election will be in the offing, and it will be extremely difficult for politicians to vote against aid for veterans in any form.

TEARING DOWN RELIGION.

Communism is making serious inroads upon church membership in countries adjacent to Soviet Russia. Religion is regarded by the Communists as a deadly foe of their doctrines, which it is. In order to do away with property the Communists must do away with home-owning families, and religion, based upon the integrity of the family, is a great stumbling block. Therefore, active efforts are now centered upon weaning away adherents of the established churches.

In Germany the attacks upon religion became so violent and abusive that President Hindenburg, in his recent decree invoking dictatorial powers, included ridicule of the church as one of the crimes punishable by military law. Socialist Free Thinkers' associations now have over 2,000 branches in Germany and claim 500,000 members. Similar Communist organizations also carry on active propaganda through hundreds of branches.

It is estimated that 2,000,000 Protestants and 500,000 adherents of other religious orders have abandoned their old affiliations since the World War. Statistics show that last year 65,000 residents of Berlin alone withdrew from churches. Agnostic groups have increased their effective organizations by holding out the inducement of insurance schemes and free cremation for members of their Free Thinkers' societies.

Politics is not lacking in all this religious turmoil. The president and Chancellor Bruening are brought into conflict with the Communists and Socialists, who are sympathetic toward the Free Thinker movement, since the officials are charged with being unduly partisan in shielding the churches from agnostic and atheistic movements.

INTERSTATE OIL CONTROL.

Oil men who are in Washington to discuss their problems with the Federal Oil Conservation Board have brought with them a novel plan to control production and prices. It is proposed that the principal oil-producing States enter into a compact, agreeing upon cooperation in prorating the output of oil and natural gas. The compact would set up a central advisory and executive body with power to prorate oil production among the various fields and to limit the output according to market conditions. The approval of Congress would be necessary to make such an interstate pact effective.

For a number of years the oil industry has been trying to restrain its own development in the interests of higher prices and conservation. The American Petroleum Institute tried to put a blanket limitation upon the output of all producers, but a warning from the Department of Justice that such action might constitute a violation of the antitrust laws terminated the project. The States have tried to deal with the problem, but they are hampered because of their limited jurisdiction. Each oil State hesitates to make drastic restrictions, because other States which did not conserve would reap an advantage. The present movement is an attempt to coordinate State restrictions, and bring the whole industry under unified control.

It is a question whether this plan could be put in operation without running afoul of the antitrust laws. The proposed interstate advisory body would be given authority to halt competition. Only enough oil to supply the national demand would be brought to the surface, and all oil fields would participate in the business on a pro rata basis. Thus the oil industry would become a potential monopoly, directed by a committee representing the oil-producing States. Under this system the oil States could exact a handsome tribute from gasoline users throughout the country.

The head of the committee which is backing this plan asserts that no laws would be violated, since the proposed interstate committee would have no authority over oil prices. It would be authorized to recommend but not to fix prices. But specific price-fixing power would not be necessary. A simple tightening up on production would do the trick. Under such circumstances it is the public that would demand price-fixing, to avoid exorbitant gasoline prices.

The United States holds strictly to the rule that whenever a trust is permitted it must submit to Federal regulation. If the oil-producing States are ready to accept Federal regulation, it does not seem necessary to create an interstate commission to act for the States.

If anybody is contemplating sending flowers to the Farm Board's funeral, says Alex Legge, he'll have to live a long time. Yes, it takes the Government a long time to bury a commission.

Michigan has voted against capital punishment. Of course, the State would not want to have Detroit depopulated.

Gandhi is going to pay a visit to the United States. He wants to learn how George did it.

WASTE OIL, THE ASSASSIN

By GEORGE WILTON FIELD.

The Federal oil conservation board is trying to clarify the present public viewpoint upon existing practices in dealing with crude petroleum as a God-given natural resource; how and why the "owners" of petroleum, by the very fact of such ownership and control, must accept certain rather definite responsibilities in the business and management, distribution and use of "black gold," in order that nature may not become poorer while certain people are "getting richer."

The real question, whether or not discussed at the present conference, is not whether this individual or that corporation shall "go broke" or "be saved" for the time being. On trial is the question whether any individual or corporation can pursue its own personal wishes and interests in such a manner as seriously to impair such essential natural resources as the waters and the atmosphere. To what extent shall this biologic law, that the individual must be sacrificed for the good of the race, rule in business and politics?

As a direct result of too hasty and wasteful "development" of the national petroleum resources, certain pernicious points of view and destructive practices have become conspicuous, on a scale broader and more threatening than is generally realized. The rapidity with which oil can become converted into the modern ideas of "wealth" has blinded us to the individual and national responsibility involved in dealing with the relatively new uses of this ancient, though hitherto little utilized, resource. If we have wastefully exploited our forests, what shall we say to the wastage of a material which spreads not merely as a destructive deluge, but which spreading in a well-nigh invisible film, spoils those raw materials of human life, the atmosphere and the water? Forests nourish life, mineral oils destroy it. Scientists assert that a film of oil even "one molecule thick" will check the interchange of gases between the air and the water. What motor-exhausts in a closed garage do to a man, a film of oil may do to the market's supply of oysters, clams and small fish, and to the microscopic plants and animals upon which these must feed and grow, and thus serve as food for man and beast. This same film of mineral oil kills millions of wild ducks. The film of oil destroys the natural oil with which every duck and goose is waterproofed.

Reports have been received that ducks killed during the migration in this manner are washing up on to the beaches by the hundreds in England, France, New Zealand and the Atlantic Coast of the United States.

The responsibility rests squarely upon those persons, whether captains of ships, of motor cars, or of industry, who believe that it is good business to dispose of any material not then and there immediately useful, in the quickest and cheapest manner, "let the costs fall where they may." Observations indicate that mineral oil has potentially become today the most serious menace to all life, from bacteria to man. Many of the larger corporations realize this, and seek a cooperative remedy. Small operators and individuals who own, distribute or use mineral oils belong to two populous families, the Don't Knows and the Don't Give-a-Damns. These two families are today responsible for a wastage of oil on streets, rivers, lakes and oceans, which imposes a burden of taxation and of unemployment, actual and evident though as yet uncomputed. The costs fall heaviest on business in general, through increased municipal taxes; for oil spoils water for many economic uses, increases fire hazards, brings losses to property and to business.

Fire is, indeed, a good servant but a bad master. Fire works rapidly, fiercely but frankly; its deeds are open and the destruction conspicuous. Mineral oil, on the other hand, assassinates nature; creeping at the surface of water, it secretly smothers its victims. Only rarely do the corpses become obvious evidences of its crime. The dead bodies of the millions of ducks, wintering and seeking food with us, and protected both here and in Canada by international responsibilities, are but warnings of the destruction of countless billions of minute forms of life, in the water, humble yet indispensable to "business" and to human life. These microscopic forms of life are the active agents in the cycle of matter, the basis of all business prosperity and of human life.

POST HASTE.

At least the next Democratic convention will know what to do. When it picks up the order of the day it will be initialed "J. J. R."

"Left wing to assist Premier MacDonald." Now if he has a good right-hander in reserve, and with L. George pinch-hitting, Labor should win this series.

There are nearly 18,000 hotels in the United States. After the delicatessens are listed it will be a short job to check up on homes.

Appearances are deceptive. Senator Borah and Heywood Broun do not agree on the Russian question, though they both wear their hair that way.

The younger generation has been maligned. The egg-rollers left very few bottles and flasks cluttering up the White House grounds.

No presidential message that Calvin Coolidge ever wrote was more commented upon than his recent little tribute to spring in New England. Now he Izaak Waltons a piece on the barefoot fisher boy that is equally delightful.

Former Secretary Fall is convicted of taking the bribe that Doheny was acquitted of giving. You'll have to figure it out for yourself.

The boy hero of the Colorado bus tragedy, Bryan Untiedt, is coming to be the President's guest. Bryan's thirteenth year will be a lucky one if he can carry his honors in the unspoiled Lindberghian manner.

The farm bloc will see its erstwhile unique position in Congress disputed by a wet bloc, an oil bloc, and a veterans' bloc, but the Progressive bloc heads 'em all.

Here's hoping Gandhi will not make us sorry we have been pulling for him by coming over here to ask for liberty. We can't spare the few liberties we have left.

SUCCESS.

"There's no such thing as success," said he,
"For there's no one as fine as he ought to be,
And the fellow on top
Is as apt to drop
As the fellow below is apt to rise,
And nobody's safe till the day he dies."

I shook my head. "What I mean," said he,
"Is the wisest of mortals could wiser be.
There is more to learn,
And more to earn,
And more to do at the break of day,
And medals won't do it, but courage may.

"He's a great success, so the papers say,
But what will be said if he fails today?
If he once sits down
To enjoy his crown
He'll wake some morning to find it gone.
Who has once done well must keep right on.

"There's seldom a man who has done so well
But could have done more if the truth he'd tell.
A goal remains
Which he never gains,
And the wise man knows in his heart that he Isn't half as wise as he'd like to be."

The Fallen Leaves Fertilize the Tree So the Tree Can Produce More Leaves.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

IN times like these, one man's business is everybody's business.

The man who does anything to stop the circulation of money injures all of us.

It is therefore every man's right to condemn the propaganda that is now being used to popularize the theory that lower wages would hasten the return of prosperity.

It is a theory based on the fallacy that producers and consumers are two distinct groups.

It is wrong—wholly wrong. The producer and the consumer are the same man. When you empty the purse of an employe, you empty the purse of a customer.

That simple and obvious truth is the foundation of America's normal prosperity.

The rich sections of America are sections where high wages enable workers to buy much; the poor and backward sections are sections where low wages make abundant consumption impossible.

The causes of booms and depressions are not obscure. They are so simple and their effect so logical that a child should understand them.

When the world's workers are employed at good wages and are buying as much as they can afford, times are good.

When prosperity encourages dreams of easy money and soft living, and people begin to live on credit, consuming what they haven't yet earned, so that factories produce more than is required for normal consumption, and this unnatural prosperity leads to speculation and borrowing and the spending of paper profits, then the people are consuming their future and times boom.

And when the bubble bursts, as it always must, and the people have no more money or credit, then goods lie on the merchants' shelves, factories close for want of orders, and workers are discharged because nobody will consume their product.

Hard times have come because workers aren't earning the money to buy things workers produce.

Good times can't return until workers become buyers, and they can't become buyers until they become earners.

Good times always begin in the manufacturing districts—never in the farm belt.

Every worker laid off or made poorer is a customer deprived of buying power.

Figure it any way you will, you can't expect much milk if you quit feeding the cow.

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics."

Raskob's Firebrand.

New York Times.

Mr. Raskob renews his own motions. It is unnecessary to repeat or discuss them. If his "home-rule" plan for the liquor question is not adopted, "we must squarely face the fact that our party is divided into two parts." As it has been a fact for some years, and presumably is to be so much longer, Mr. Raskob ought to have been able to face it before this. He ought also to face the fact that his harping on this string can only have the result of accentuating the division and of further enraging the Southern drys.

Besides, the New York State Democratic committee and the supporters of Governor Roosevelt have taken a different and more moderate attitude, so that Mr. Raskob seems to be speaking largely for himself or a minor division of his party. With the best of intentions, he misunderstands the proper functions of the national committee. He seems to be seeking to make it an engine of propaganda for policies the agitation of which, at this time, can only conduce to further Democratic dissension.

Chairman Raskob has faith that, if the people are able to make selections between advertised articles of tooth paste, shaving cream, radios and automobiles, they are able to make selections between advertised Republican or Democratic articles. Tammany's house cleaning in preparation for an investigation by the Legislature is something of an object lesson in actual government. LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Democratic Party Asked to Risk Its Existence on the Guess That the People Have Changed Their Minds.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The epistle of the Apostle Raskob to the Jeffersonians would suit me a good deal better if it did not seem to favor the dogma of wetness as an essential part of the Democratic creed.

Reading what he has to say, you might imagine that in 1789 the ship of State was christened with a jug of mountain dew as it slid off the revolutionary dry dock into a halcyon sea of champagne and lager.

Be that as it may, our Constitution is at the present time a dry Constitution, and the people made it so. They made it so after generations of agitation. To imply, as the Raskobian epistle does, that the people within a few short years have changed their minds and are now inclined to make the dry Constitution wet, is to imply more than can be proved. The Democratic party can not afford to risk its existence on a wild guess.

Waited Two Hours to See a Movie Play and Then Missed It.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Isn't the public entitled to a little consideration in regard to what to expect when attempting to see a movie? Having read the advance notices regarding a current attraction, I purchased a ticket and entered the house at 5:30 p. m., expecting to see a picture of entertaining and perhaps educational value. At 7:45 p. m., two hours later, the picture had not yet been presented, and the press of time did not permit of my remaining any longer.

Had the two intervening hours brought anything worth while they would have seemed less wasteful, but the presentations during that period, with the exception of a glimpse of Walter Johnson, and a bit of good acrobatic work, were scarcely worthy of notice, certainly not worth the price of admission.

Time is the most precious thing we have. After spending eight hours daily in office and trying to spend the free ones to the best advantage, it seems a bit unfair that it should be so wasted while attempting to see something worth while.

Conditions of Sale of Theater Tickets. A Mysterious System.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: One wonders, and is justified in wondering, under what conditions theater and concert tickets are allocated. No plan is available which indicates the position of the seats purchased, and it does not appear that the earliest applicants obtain the best seats. Later purchasers obtain better seats, and one sees many vacant seats which are better than those purchased. It does not seem very likely that all the vacant seats have been sold and that the purchasers have failed to attend. These facts, and the arbitrary action of the Philadelphia Orchestral Association in denying late comers the opportunity of taking their seats after the first number, and making them wait more than an hour for the intermission, tend to disgust people with the conditions under which entertainments are provided in Washington.

TIGERS, BUT NO COWS.

Because one out of every four school children in Los Angeles has never seen a cow, the board of education has decided to apply laboratory methods to a new problem, according to the New York Times. Every day a motor truck conveys a cow and her two calves on a tour of the public schools. The Associated Press dispatch does not make the specific statement, but we presume that the children go outside to inspect their bovine visitors.

It is not altogether to the credit of Los Angeles that it should have developed a tenement population so large as would be indicated by the fact that one child in every four has never been out in the open country long enough to have seen a cow; or, having developed a tenement population, that it should not have developed summer outing and fresh air facilities for its poorer children. Only in their readers and Mother Goose books do the little ones encounter the domestic animals.

As a result there are children in Los Angeles—and every other big American city—who know about cows that jump over the moon, and cows with crumpled horns, and other temperamental cows, but have never actually seen a cow in a barn. They know all about the sheep that Bo-Peep lost and the lamb that Mary couldn't lose, but they have still to make the acquaintance of a flock of sheep in a meadow. In New York City there must be scores of thousands of children who have stood face to face with tigers and boa constrictors and armadillos—in the Central Park Zoo—but have never seen a cow.

POWER FIGHT WON BY GOV. ROOSEVELT

Three of G. O. P. Majority in Senate Vote for Bill in Original Form.

Albany, N. Y., April 7 (A.P.).—The Democratic Governor of New York, Franklin D. Roosevelt, today won his water-power fight with the Republican Senate, the upper house passing the St. Lawrence River development measure in the form he desired.

Three of the majority of 35 voted with a solid Democratic minority of 23 to strip the bill of an amendment taking from the governor the power of naming the five trustees who will direct the $170,000,000 hydroelectric project. Senators who left the Republican fold, Alexander G. Baxter, Warren T. Thayer and Perley A. Pitcher, represent the section of the State in which the electric plants will be built.

Drive on Capitol Loomed.

The objectionable amendment, presented by the Republican leader, Senator John Knight, brought a threat of veto from Gov. Roosevelt, who also planned to take the water-power controversy to the electorate, in a radio speech.

Communities in Jefferson and St. Lawrence counties, fearful that the capitol squabble would defeat water power legislation in this session of the Legislature, threatened to send delegations here to argue with their representatives. At a hurried conference of Republican leaders in New York, it was decided to drop the amendment fight.

Senator Knight, who soon leaves the tumult of the political arena for the less contentious chambers of a Federal district judge, defended his action in a final speech.

Colleagues Sit Silent.

"This amendment was not made by me alone," he declared. "I'm not alone responsible, let me inform this house and the public."

His colleagues sat silent as Senator Thayer moved to eliminate the amendment. A few minutes later the bill was ready for the governor's signature.

Following deletion of the Knight amendment all the Republicans of the Senate joined with the Democrats to pass the bill unanimously.

MILLION DOLLAR SPAN IS NAMED FOR TAFT

many of the residents of Washington:

"And, whereas, the Commissioners of the District of Columbia desire to honor the memory of this great American citizen by making a slight tribute of affection from the people of the District of Columbia to one who, as President of the United States and Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, had so endeared himself to them, it is hereby ordered:

"That the bridge across Rock Creek in the line of Connecticut avenue, heretofore known as the Connecticut Avenue Bridge, shall on and after this date be officially designated 'The William Howard Taft Bridge.'"

No money is available at this time to place a tablet or marker on the bridge, but the Commissioners probably will ask for an appropriation for this purpose in their 1933 estimates.

Correspondence preceding the action of the Commissioners reveals that in 1930 M. C. Hazen, District surveyor, questioned the authority of the District authorities to change the name without authority from Congress. Following this report the measure was submitted to Congress.

Suicide Reveals Dual Life Of Missing Newspaper Man

Two Widows Mourn at Bier of Arizona Editor Who Ended Life With Pistol; Dead Writer Had Changed Name After Disappearing.

Yuma, Ariz., April 7 (A.P.).—The mystery-shrouded trail of Hutton Bellah, 38-year-old former Altus, Okla., newspaper publisher, led today to the bier of William A. Lee, editor and publisher of the Yuma (Ariz.) Sentinel, where two women mourned as widows.

The publisher killed himself yesterday with a pistol in the presence of his second wife, when, apparently, he discovered his real identity was about to be revealed.

Mrs. Hutton Bellah, viewing the body today, said Lee and her missing husband were the same man. Mrs. Lee, the former Edna Louise Schatz, of Platteville, Wis., said she married the man in Rockford, Ill., July 17, 1930, without knowledge he ever had been married before.

Bellah moved with his family from Altus to Los Angeles in October, 1929, and on December 28, 1929, dropped from sight.

Lost Heavily in Market.

"He had lost heavily in the stock market," Mrs. Bellah said. "He threatened suicide just before he disappeared.

"He told us he had lost most of our money and that he thought seriously of killing himself. We didn't believe it then.

"At that time we had a boy, who is now 4 years old. Another child was born four months after Mr. Bellah disappeared.

"I never had a clew to his whereabouts until yesterday, when Mr. Harry Wimberly telegraphed me his suspicions. Mr. Wimberly is on his way to Yuma now. He had had some one here for the last week, I think, investigating, but I don't know who it was."

Harry Wimberly was Bellah's business associate in Altus.

Death Bares Mystery.

"I didn't know anything about any of it until he was dead," Mrs. Lee said. "We were married in Rockford, Ills. I never suspected he had another wife, or that his name was not Lee. I feel too badly to talk about it, and I really don't think there is any more for me to say."

Bellah, under the name of Lee, purchased the Yuma Sentinel October 1, 1930.

Mrs. Lee testified at the inquest her husband grasped a pistol suddenly and shot himself as he was preparing to leave home for his office. That he had premeditated the act was indicated in a note he left for Mrs. Lee, instructing her to notify Lew H. Wentz, multimillionaire oil man of Ponca City, Okla., who was a friend of Bellah.

Friend Ready to Aid.

Oklahoma City, April 7 (A.P.).—Hutton Bellah, missing former publisher of Altus, Okla., ended a fifteen months' masquerade by suicide at Yuma, Ariz., before Lew Wentz, his multimillionaire friend, could aid him.

"I would have done anything I could to solve his problems," the wealthy oil man said, disclosing he received a letter from Bellah today, telling of financial difficulties and saying "I am ready to give up the struggle."

The letter came after Wentz had been informed of the suicide of Bellah, who since deserting his wife and children in Los Angeles in December, 1929, had remarried under the name of William Lee and had published a newspaper at Yuma.

Sold Paper and Vanished.

Previously Wentz, learning Bellah's whereabouts, had written to him, expressing a continuing interest in his welfare. The oil man had befriended Bellah before the latter built up the Altus Times-Democrat, which he sold four months before he vanished from Los Angeles.

Bellah expressed a desire to see Wentz and asked him to write "information of that which I dare not seek, dread to hear, yet long for most."

This Wentz believes refers to Mrs. Bellah, who today identified her husband's body.

Bellah also said he had "a white elephant here that has been almost impossible to keep out of the hands of the sheriff," and added:

"Mentally, I don't see the way out. There is none except the one I am too cowardly to take."

Succeeded as Publisher.

Bellah, said by Wentz to have been "one of the coming young men of Oklahoma," had made a success as publisher at Altus after acting for several years as publicity director of the University of Oklahoma.

Harrington Wimberly, present Times-Democrat editor, who earlier had recognized Bellah's style in the columns of the Yuma paper, left today for Arizona. Also en route there were Mrs. L. H. Bellah, his mother, and John Jones, his brother-in-law.

Associates of Bellah at Altus said they never had heard of Edna Schatz, whom he married under the name of W. A. Lee last summer.

Dispute Over Smack Brings Jail Sentence

There was a dispute about just what type of a smack it was that Mary Ambrose received from Ernest P. Ayers when the case against Ayers was called yesterday in Police Court.

The complaining witness quoted the smack as being one of those resounding impacts delivered with the palm of the hand, while the defendant proclaimed it one of those not-so-resonant smacks delivered with the lips. Judge Given ruled it an assault, no matter which way the smack went, and Ayers will have to serve some 30 days in the jail.

Eatons to Open Bellevue House For Inspection

Georgetown Home Soon to Be Made Museum by Colonial Dames.

TURNING back the pages of Time to historic Georgetown, Representative and Mrs. Charles A. Eaton will open their house, Bellevue, for the tours conducted on Friday and Saturday for the benefit of St. John's Church, famous edifice in the quaint old town. Although they expect to leave Washington in May, Representative and Mrs. Eaton are lending cooperation to the success of the "one-hour tours" by throwing open the fine mansion as a sort of farewell "party" before the house passes permanently into the possession of the Colonial Dames of America.

Although the tours will embrace most of the historic area of Georgetown, only three stops will be made by the "personal conductors." These include Bellevue, St. John's Church and the A. Blair Thaw house at 3255 N street. All of decidedly interesting origin, the home now occupied by the New Jersey representative probably holds the palm in historic lore. Built in 1760 by Charles Carroll (one of the Carrolls of Carrollton), the house was once owned by John Newbold and long ago sheltered Dolly Madison in the hours of stress after the burning of the White House in 1812.

The Colonial Dames of America will open the house next year as a museum.

Boasting a tablet written by Francis Scott Key, old St. John's will also prove a high spot in the tour unique. Mellowed by the years the lovely church cherishes its memories and particularly its associations which mingle the old and the new to bring visitors a pervading air of peace.

The groups will then visit the home of Mrs. A. Blair Thaw, once owned by Mayor Sweeney, the last mayor of Georgetown. Members of old Georgetown families, the conductors themselves will lend additional significance to the tour, which has for its chairman Mrs. Jefferson R. Kean. The buses, which will leave the Peck Memorial Chapel at Twenty-ninth street and Pennsylvania avenue every half-hour, will have young women guides who know their Georgetown and are enabled through years of residence there, to tell a story about each "stone and cranny."

With Mrs. Theodore Gill as chairman of the guides there will be Mrs. P. Trubee Davison, Mrs. Harry Leonard, Mrs. Benjamin W. Thoron, Mrs. Louis Mackall, Mrs. John Sevier, Miss Mary Marbury, Mrs. Albion R. Parris, jr., Mrs. Bland Tucker, Miss Eliza Darnielle and Miss Edith Trapier.

PRESBYTERIANS CITE INTOLERABLE STATE

"Itching Ears" Are One Reason Blamed for Unrest in Church Pews.

Atlanta, Ga., April 7 (A.P.).—The committee on plans for changing pastorates of the Southern Presbyterian Church will send a majority report to the Seventy-first General Assembly of the church at Montreat, N. C., in May, in which it will say that "restlessness" within the pastorate and the churches has produced "an intolerable state of affairs."

The majority report, released Monday, was signed by the Rev. S. L. Morris, of Atlanta; the Rev. A. G. Irons, of Birmingham, Ala.; and W. A. Watt, of Thomasville, Ga.

The committee outlines a forceful description of present restiveness before offering its plan for finding new jobs for dissatisfied ministers and new ministers for dissatisfied churches.

Spiritual qualifications are overlooked by many churches when they go looking for a new pastor, and they demand a man who is "young," "a go-getter," a "trash-mover," a "humdinger." One minister wrote to the committee to explain many cases of pastoral incompatibility.

In addition, the same minister wrote, they demand a preacher who has a "good front" and who is "socially attractive."

One spiritually-minded layman of an important church, the committee reports, said there had not been a new thought presented in that pulpit in twenty years, though it had changed pastors several times."

"Itching ears," increased desire for entertainment in the pulpit, worldliness, and a demand for sensational methods to attract larger audiences are other reasons assigned by the committee for unrest in the pew.

Aid to Suffering Managuans Asked

Sympathy Is Expressed by Pan-American Union to Quake Victims.

An expression of sympathy on the occasion of the Nicaraguan earthquake and an appeal to the governments of the American republics to cooperate in alleviating the suffering there were contained in a resolution adopted unanimously yesterday by the governing board of the Pan-American Union. Secretary of State Stimson, chairman of the board, presented the resolution.

Another resolution, presented by Adrian Recinos, Minister from Guatemala, also was adopted, authorizing the chairman of the board to appoint a special committee to create a plan of concurrent action among the American republics on occasions similar to those which now prevail in the stricken country.

Speaking in behalf of his government, Juan B. Sacasa, Minister from Nicaragua, thanked the governing board for its efforts to hasten relief and rehabilitation.

Envoy Davila Of Roumania Honor Guest

Minister to Address Pen Women on Theater of His Country.

The Minister of Roumania, Mr. Charles A. Davila, who will be a guest of honor and speaker at the authors' breakfast of the National League of American Pen Women, April 18, at the Willard Hotel, has chosen for his topic a discussion of the development and present status of the theater in Roumania. The Roumanian people respond naturally to the appeal of the drama, and Mr. Davila's father, the late Alexander Davila, was a potent influence during his life in the development of the theater in that country.

He is credited with having written one of the most powerful dramas ever produced in Roumania, a historical play whose title in English would be "The Black Prince."

Interest is also keen in the talk to be given at the breakfast by Mr. Hans Kindler, who is arousing the civic pride of Washington to a remarkable degree in the proposition that the National Capital should have its own orchestra.

Mrs. Nina Swaim Clark, first vice president of the league and toastmistress for the breakfast, has reserved a table for the breakfast. Mrs. John W. Bennett, Mrs. Charles E. Riordan and Mrs. James Cox are also among those who will be hostesses at reserved tables.

Miss Katharine Jacobs, of the District branch of the league has arranged a party and will have with her Mrs. Otis Hullings, Mrs. Gertrude Boswell, Mrs. Grace Koob Taylor, Miss Gretna P. Boswell and Miss Marguerite Jacobs.

Lieut. Angus Meade Cohan and Mrs. Cohan announce the birth of a son on March 30 at the Augusta General Hospital, Augusta, Me. The child is the grandson of Maj. John E. Hewitt, U. S. A., retired, and Mrs. Hewitt, and a great-grandson of the late Bishop Meade, of Virginia.

Fakers Must Fail
In Their Absurd Appeals
To the Fat

Fakers have flourished in their appeals to the over-fat. Not many remain. Some of their methods were harmful, some absurd. All have perished quickly in the test.

One reason is that medical science has found a great cause of excess fat. It lies in a lacking gland secretion which must be supplied. Doctors the world over now supply it, and excess fat in late years has been going fast.

A world-famous medical laboratory embodies this factor in Marmola prescription tablets. Not to oppose doctors, but to supply their best help in a very economical way. Thus Marmola opens this right way to millions who might otherwise go wrong.

Marmola has been used for 24 years—millions of boxes of it. The use has grown and grown, while the frauds disappeared by the scores. Now in every circle you can see the results. Your own friends can recite them. Slender figures are the vogue.

Marmola, in every box, gives the formula complete. It also tells you why the fat goes, why new vim appears.

If you have been enticed by fakes, by silly claims, go now and use what doctors use. Combat your fat in the right and scientific way. Gain normal figure, normal vim in Nature's way. Then tell your friends about it—they should know. Go now and order a $1 box from your druggist. Read the book, watch the many good results.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"ARIES."

IF April 8 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8:15 a. m. to 9:45 a. m., from 11 a. m. to noon, from 3 p. m. to 4:15 p. m., and from 8 p. m. to 10 p. m. The only danger period is from 5 p. m. to 7:10 p. m.

April 8 promises, according to astrological indications, to be stimulating and energizing. An opportunity will present itself, which it will require courage to embrace, but, if seized, will give ultimate success. In the evening, the signs are favorable for lovers—but not for those of faint heart.

Children born on this April 8 will be original, courageous and rather reserved. They will not be very susceptible to control, but they will be reliable—if put on their honor. In maturer years, they will venture much—never foolishly—and reap a reward commensurate with their efforts.

If you were born on April 8, you are matter-of-fact and phlegmatic. You never puzzle over conditions. You accept them and abide by them. Romance does not affect your life, nor touch it. You are capable of a sturdy affection, but never the victim of passion. Your temperament is easy-going. Once aroused, however, you let yourself go—as freely and as forcibly as the rest of them. You are not ordinarily emotional, but are very natural. Your naturalness is one of your attractions, and pleases rather than antagonizes.

You, always courteous, never attempt to ingratiate by insincerity or flattery. You call a spade a spade—and let it go at that. Slow to take offense, you are equally slow to forgive an affront or an injury. You are not ambitious, and the philosophy of "sufficient until the day" seems to satisfy you. In your work, you display conscientiousness, application and perseverance. When the day's work is finished, you forget it. You live in the present, and give little thought of the future. Your horoscope denotes a lack of change and a monotony that would displease many, but will suit you. A contented life, although lacking in thrills; moderate, but not spectacular success is in store for you.

Successful people born April 8:
David Rittenhouse, astronomer.
Pliny Freeman, founder of New York Life Insurance Co.
Irving R. Wiles, artist.
Mary Pickford, movie actress.
King Albert of Belgium.
Frederick E. Pond ("Will Wildwood"), editor of Sportsman Review.

Dare Interprets the MODE

An extremely smart early summer ensemble in white woolen, the coat simply buckled with a dark-green buckle, the dress belted in dark green and showing dark-green buttons, and the blouse eyelet embroidery. (Courtesy of Lenief, Paris.)

Paris, April 7.

LAST week I told you about gloves in general, but today I want to tell you about the gloves at Jenny's because, of all the Paris collections this couturier gives gloves the most emphasis. Practically all of her outdoor costumes, as well as her evening frocks, are presented with gloves specially designed for each one. Since most of her spectator sport costumes and afternoon ensembles have short jackets with three-quarter sleeves, the gloves are designed to reach just to these sleeves. The hand of the glove is in kid or antelope, and the upper part in the same material as the costume. When the latter is a figured fabric, such as dark blue woolen with a discreet white marking, the effect of the matching glove is most distinctive.

If you have a lace frock (and they are practical because they do not rumple) you will be interested in the gloves that Jenny designs for her lace gowns. With a gray-pink lace evening dress were gloves in matching pink suede. The hand of these was pink suede, but just above the wrist they gracefully turned themselves into pink lace and finished above the elbow in a tiny band of suede. The same model in black antelope and black lace appeared with a black lace gown. These were lovely, the arm of the wearer throwing into relief the design of the lace!

Who would think that so much allure could be contained in a bit of chiffon cut just a certain way and bordered with quiet little flowers! My dear, it's positively terrific what this little hunk of chiffon or tulle can do to even the most detached male, all subconsciously, of course. I mean he is. For no woman in her right mind could be anything but conscious of her devastating effect when she has this little handful of nothing draped just a certain way around her shoulders. Just send a stamped self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the illustrated leaflet telling you how to make this little shawl scarf, because you'll find so many occasions when your allure needs just a little tangible reinforcement.

I have sketched for you today a particularly smart ensemble—oh, a stunning one—that I can just see on the boardwak in Atlantic City one of these early spring Sundays. Both the coat and the dress are made of lightweight woolen in white, and the entire upper part of the dress, in a blouse effect, is all-over embroidered in tiny squares with an eyelet in the center of each square. The belt of the dress is dark green, banded in white, and the buttons are green—but the only green that appears on the coat is its buckle. The back of the coat was specially interesting, and the whole ensemble particularly Lenief-like in quiet chic and elegance—another one of those ensembles which always manage to find its way into the wardrobe of a really elegant lady who knows how to choose her gowns for their distinction and good taste.

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

EARLY WORK IN THE BORDER.

THE first thing in the spring to which all gardeners turn their attention is the hardy herbaceous border. Nearly all plants in hardy borders are gross feeders. Do not imagine that they will do well in any good garden loam. They may flourish at first, but they will not continue to do well indefinitely. The faster they grow at first the sooner they will exhaust the soil.

Early April is the time to feed these plants, so spread a layer of well-rotted stable manure over the top of the ground. Allow this to remain as a top dressing for perhaps a week, then go over the entire border with a digging fork and turn it under. In doing this try to incorporate the manure with the soil. By this I mean break it into small particles so that it may be well scattered through the loam. If you followed the advice given last fall in this column your plants are carefully labeled and you are not apt to do much damage with your fork. If you neglected this phase of your fall garden work you will have to go slowly so as to avoid injuring the bulbs and roots of the plants.

At this time when manure is so hard to obtain you may find it more convenient to use bone meal or a combination of bone meal and sheep manure. You need not be careful with bone meal, for in the open it is almost impossible to use too much. Sprinkle it over the ground until it is quite white and you will have used enough.

If you do not add some form of fertilizer to your border at this time you will undoubtedly find, when the warm, humid days of midsummer arrive, that your plants are tall, droopy and spindling.

April 1 is the time to cut away the dead wood of the shrubbery at the back of the border. It is always surprising how much wood winter has killed and it is also surprising how little this really seems to injure the plants.

Should the weather be a bit balmy and growth start in with a rush, do not be induced to begin weeding so soon. If you do you will be sure to uproot some of your most desirable plants. Even where the plants have been carefully marked this may happen. There is always some uncertainty as to what is what. Later when the plants are a few inches high you will be able to know at a glance just what each green stem may be.

All readers' questions on growing and care of indoor and outdoor flowers and floral decorations for social functions will be answered by Miss Kift, directly in this column if addressed in care of The Washington Post, or directly to readers if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is supplied.

Hoover's Trout Stream, Restocked, Is Ready

(Associated Press.)

Foaming waters and plenty of fish are awaiting President Hoover on the Rapidan. The stream that was only a thread during the record drought is now brimming over and in it are several hundred Eastern brook trout recently planted there by the Bureau of Fisheries.

The bureau, fearing the trout had been depleted by the unusual heat and low water last summer, has restocked the river twice. President Hoover plans to visit his camp on the first favorable week-end.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

Blurred Vision.

DEAR Frances McDonald I am married to a wife who does not seem to know how to behave. She has a past not to be proud of. Besides, one day I caught her kissing a man. Then a workman we had fell in love with her and this went on for three months till I found out. His attitude was justified. I cussed her whole family, making them responsible for their daughter's upbringing. The family asked me to send her to them to talk with her "for my sake and the babies." As soon as she got to them the father wrote me to go fish. She has been a prisoner there since. I saw her a couple of months later. She told me all. She had been forbidden to write or talk to me. She wanted to see me every day. I arranged with her that I would put an ad in the paper offering a job. She to answer. I paid her a regular salary for four months. She went home every night. I had lost my own job on account of her some time ago. I was paying her out of a few savings. Funds got low. I would see one of the two babies every two weeks or so. This is two years old, and a girl. She offered to show me the other baby by going to a park near her home. I said no. I was very busy looking for work and did not want to start any trouble as yet. Well, I told my wife I could no longer afford to pay a salary, that she owed me her free assistance in order for me again to get a footing. I said go to your parents and tell the truth and come back and help me. She was in my "employ" for about four months. She asked me to forgive all the wrong she did me. I did so and swore to stand by her forever as I had done. She is all right after all. It's the parents who do not know how to raise their daughters. That is all, and I told them so. No soul in their home. No Bible in sight. Never went to church in four years that I know them. Her parents leave their daughters to pick mates below their own level. Hence the loss of virtue in automobiles and such things. When she left me to square things with her people she said "only I am afraid mother will not part from the babies."

She did not come back the next day as she promised. I telegraphed my faith and support. (I would not enter that home.) My telegram came back "acceptance refused by addressee." I spent $18,000 in the last two years for my wife's benefit. My salary was $6,500 a year. Now I am busted, and working for $10 a week in a basement. I am a university man with American and foreign degrees and have been honored by royalty. To my wife's parents I am an infamous man for having told them the truth. Furniture was lost piece by piece. Insurance overdue and lost. Got to make a future for the two little baby daughters, and that takes money. That is what my wife's father never understood. He is one that does not do himself the honor of thinking. He will talk three days about a leak in the boiler down at the bakery where he works. He probably thinks also that the Bible was dictated to some typist by a good-natured business man during his leisure hours. This mess has begun three years ago. I am fit for a sanatorium. Have lost the power to reason, hence this incoherent writing. My lawyer says it is an easy case in any court. But I am broke. My wife is incommunicado since yesterday and probably being tormented to death. What can I do in the meantime? My lawyer is waiting for me to say "go to it," but the money I would rather spend in buying cribs and tables and chairs again to set up a home. Then why also fuss and bring back to my wife's memory things she wants to forget? Miss McDonald just tell me one single thing. What is wrong with me?

JIM.

There is nothing wrong with you Jim, except that for the moment you have lost your perspective. The telescope has become reversed so that you are looking through the wrong end. As a result success looks a long way off and the way out of your difficulties seems miles distant. Just right the telescope and see things as they are.

Your wife for the present is best with her people. So eliminate that angle from your thought. Concentrate on yourself and getting back your former place in the world. It is waiting for you. It is not lost, you know, just because your job was lost. That is one advantage of making a place for oneself—it does not depend upon any one job.

What you need is to clear from your mind all unnecessary and confusing thought—just as you would clear your desk for some special undertaking. Clear the decks. Focus on one thing. Getting back. Get in touch with every one who could help you. Go after them—hard. Forget the addle-pated wife and her doings. Forget what money you have lost. Think only of the money you are going to make. Do not despise the basement. Let it be symbolic. The foundation for your rise. When you are seeing clearly you will see the solution. At present you see only a tangled jumble. Your vision will clear as your mind clears and your mind will clear as you discard each unprofitable consideration. Make every act a step toward the definite. And in one year from today the basement will be a memory, part of yesterday's 7,000 years.

Eyes front, Jim. Success awaits. Just sift through the interference and make the goal.

YOUR NAME

WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

By HARRY A. DEFERRARI, Ph. D.

THE previous article of this series included remarks concerning the family name "Cobb" as found in England. This name and all its sources have many German equivalent forms, all of which are found as modern German family names Corresponding to the English "Cobbold" are the German "Koppold," "Kobbelt" and "Kobelt." Some of the many German diminutive forms of "Jacob" and "Kob," "Kobs," "Kopp" and "Kopps." Rather common English diminutive forms of "Cobb" are "Cobbin" and "Cobbing." A certain Ralph Cobbin is mentioned in the Hundred Rolls.

The family name "Copp" is of English origin. It means "the hill" and "the peak," and indicates an original place of residence. A certain John de la Coppe is mentioned in an English document of the year 1331. This name has frequently become confused with "Cobb."

The family name "Cope" is merely a variation of "Copp." Therefore its full significance is "he who lives at the hill or peak." This form does not seem to occur in the earliest records. A London church register records the death of a certain Joane Cope in 1574.

It has been noticed that in the United States and Canada the directories of cities with large German popualtions frequently include an unusually large number of Copes, Copps and Cobbs. This is obviously due to the fact that many German families originally named "Kop," "Kob," &c., have adopted English spellings for their names.

Watch this column every day. Your name will appear here.

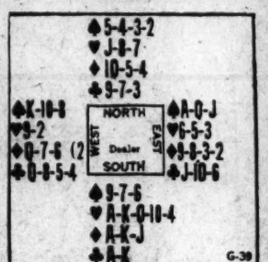
WORK ON BRIDGE

AN UNEXPECTED ASSET.



THE bidding of the above hand at Auction would be: South, one Heart, followed by three passes. At Contract, South's most advantageous bid would be two Clubs (the artificial bid that seeks information and demands that the bidding be kept open); North's answer would be two Diamonds, which would show that North had not an Ace and a King, or two Aces; and South would then bid four Hearts, which would end the contracting.

The two-Club bid would be of advantage if North happened to have the Ace and King of Spades; in which case he would give a strength answer instead of the two Diamonds, and South then would be in position to bid for a slam or at least to suggest one.

In the play, West led a Club which South won. It looked to South as if his only chance for game was to win three Diamonds; so to tricks 2 and 3 South led the Ace and King of Hearts, and then a third round of trumps won by North with the Jack. This was followed by a diamond finesse which went wrong, and consequently the Declarer failed to make game.

Should Declarer have relied upon the Diamond finesse?

THE CORRECT PLAY.

The Declarer should have appreciated that there was a chance of establishing a Spade in the dummy hand, and there could be no harm in trying it first. Declarer should have led a Spade to trick 2. When the adversaries won and, as they doubtless would, led a second Club, South should have won and led a second Spade. When the adversaries led a third Club, South should have ruffed, led the Ace and King of trumps and the Ace of Diamonds, and then a third Spade. The third Spade lead, as it happens, would make a thirteener of North's Five of Spades—quite remarkable for a player with a Five as his highest card of a suit, to have that card made good.

The third Spade trick would be won by East, and it would make no difference what he then led; dummy would have an entry in the Jack of Hearts, enabling him to cash his thirteenth Spade and giving closed hand a discard of his Jack of Diamonds.

MUSIC PRODUCTION WILL BE REPEATED

ostello Post Again to Offer "Songlands Romance" at McKinley High.

Because of the unusual success ith which the performance of Songland's Romance" was staged by r Costello Post of the American egion Monday night in the Washington Auditorium, it has been decided to give additional performances onight and tomorrow night in the uditorium at the McKinley High chool, according to an announcement yesterday.

The production, which was witnessed by one of the largest audiences to gather for an amateur entertainment recently, was pronounced success in every way by those who aw it, and it was thought yesterday hat many friends of the veterans who are sponsoring the undertaking ould see the program again tonight r tomorrow night.

The entire cast and ensemble of er 100 picked voices was recruited ntirely within the District, and the ge male chorus will compare with y of the large college glee clubs the country. Lieut. Charles iemer directed the production and as done an admirable job of it.

Although many of those taking arts in the production were heard r the first time in public, there ere many who have become familiar Washingtonians through the different radio stations and public entertainments. These include the nis Shawn-Hayden group, and the anglot groups of dancers. Earl eatwole, tenor soloist at WJSV; Dr. Seba L. Christie, WOL, and S. W. Swygart, church soloist, are included in the list.

The performances are being given for the purpose of raising funds for the purchase of instruments and uniforms for the members of the band and drum corps of Costello Post, and the veterans have risked quite a large sum of money in putting on the musical. Performances tonight and tomorrow night will begin at 8 o'clock.

END OF BIG DROUGHT PROCLAIMED BY HYDE

tutions working in cooperation with the intermediate credit banks to aid agricultural financing in these areas. In order to insure permanency and efficient management, he said, it has been the policy to require some small local capital in such enterprises.

On the question of crop prospects for this year, Mr. Hyde was inclined to be optimistic. Recent rains, he said, have brought about a normal precipitation for this season and if that continues there will be a good harvest.

Asked about the condition of live stock in drought areas, Mr. Hyde said most of the farmers there have very little live stock and that this situation is one of the weaknesses of the agricultural system there. It is also one that the Government is not authorized to remedy. "We can make a loan to feed a cow but not to buy one," he explained.

Nice Will Release Beauty on Bonds

Mrs. Nixon-Nordlinger, Alleged Slayer, to Be Freed Soon.

Nice, France, April 7 (A.P.).—Mrs. Charlotte Nixon-Nirdlinger, former beauty contestant, will be released on bail within five days to await trial for the slaying of her husband, Fred Nixon-Nirdlinger, Philadelphia theater owner.

In making this announcement, Magistrate Vauchier said today she would not receive a hearing until the August term of court and he did not wish her to remain in jail during the hot summer. He declined to say how much bail he would require.

The young matron has not seen her two small children since she was arrested after the shooting on March 11. In the meantime, her mother, Mrs. James H. Nash, of St. Louis, Mo., has arrived.

When taken into custody, Mrs. Nixon-Nirdlinger said she killed her husband in self-defense.

FRANCE, AS "WET," TO OPPOSE HOOVER FOR 1932 NOMINATION

of opening trade relations with Russia, but not recognition.

Dr. France was an announced candidate for the Republican nomination for President in advance of the 1920 convention, but was given only scattered votes before Warren G. Harding was nominated.

"The eighteenth amendment," said his statement, "is an important issue, but it involves two paramount issues: Shall we elect to the Presidency any man who can condone such a terrific blow struck at the very roots of constitutional government? Shall the people elect to the Presidency, at this critical time, any man who has lacked the candor and the courage to state boldly and clearly where he stands upon this and every important issue of vital concern to the American people?"

Since his defeat for reelection to the Senate in 1922 by William Cabell Bruce, a Democrat, Dr. France has not been active in politics. His second wife, whom he married in Paris in 1927, is a native of Russia, and his interest in that country has been evidenced by two trips he made there.

Dr. France, born in Maryland in 1873, made his initial entry into politics in 1905, when he was elected State senator.

A physician, he studied at Leipsig, Clark University, the College of Physicians and Surgeons in Baltimore, and the Johns Hopkins Medical School.

His entry gives Maryland two presidential candidates, as Gov. Albert C. Ritchie is considered a certain entrant for the Democratic nomination.

10,000 in Moscow Menaced by Flood

Inhabitants Ready to Flee Before 16-Inch Snow Overflows River.

Moscow, April 7 (A.P.).—While this section of the Soviet Union was covered with 16 inches of snow today, authorities were preparing to protect life and property from a flood of the Moscow River, which is expected to follow melting of the snow.

Ten thousand persons will be removed immediately from the low sections of the city, which have been damaged in past years by high water. A number of buildings on both sides of the river, including the new British embassy, are located in the area considered endangered.

It is estimated that the greatest peril will not be felt here for nearly three weeks. The present snowfall is 4 inches deeper than in 1926, when floods caused considerable damage.

Chevrolet presents

a very smart new personal car

the Chevrolet 5-passenger coupe

A great number of men and women, today, want a distinctly personal type of enclosed car that accommodates five passengers. For these, Chevrolet now presents a new de luxe sport model—the Chevrolet 5-passenger coupe.

A glance at this new coupe will tell you that here is something quite different in low-cost transportation. Fisher artistry and skill find smart expression in its trim, modish lines. The modern sport treatment is especially evident in the striking color contrasts on body and wire wheels, the large amount of chrome-plating, and the rakish contour of the rear.

The close-coupled interior has the same practical seating arrangement used in the conventional 2-door sedan, thus affording abundant room for all passengers. And along with de luxe wire wheels, this model offers many other de luxe features including package compartment, rich broadcloth upholstery, assist cord, ash tray, arm rests and unusually attractive Ternstedt interiorware.

Make it a special point to come in and see this fashionable new sport model. It has poise. It has distinction. It has all the easy-riding and handling, the dependability and six-cylinder performance for which Chevrolet cars are so well known. Yet one of its leading attractions is an extremely low price of $595, f. o. b. Flint, Michigan.

Washington Coin Designs Sought

Mellon Will Ask Artists to Make Drawings for New Quarter.

Designs for the new quarter dollar, to be issued next year as part of the Nation-wide celebration of the 200th anniversary of the birth of George Washington, will be sought from leading artists of the country through an invitation to be extended within a few days by Andrew W. Mellon, Secretary of the Treasury, it was announced yesterday.

The coin will be the first of a regular issue to bear the image of Washington. The picture of Washington will probably be the one by Houdon, now at Mount Vernon, which has been selected by the portrait committee of the George Washington Bicentennial Commission as the best likeness of the first President in existence.

Secretary Mellon, before announcing the design to be used, will consult Representative Sol Bloom, associate director of the George Washington Bicentennial Commission. A portrait of Washington was used on a few coins made in 1783, but they were not issued or approved by the Government.

Hysong Co., 1300 N street northwest.

DEMOCRATIC LEADERS SPLIT OVER LETTER SENT BY RASKOB

with him on prohibition, so that the only issue would be a "sham battle" over prohibition.

"If they can get the people to fighting over prohibition then the organized millionaires will make big contributions to both parties and they will go to play golf or fish while the people fight the sham battle, Mr. Norris said.

"They want the people to forget that they are hungry and cold while they discuss the proposition of repeal of the eighteenth amendment."

Comment from members of the Democratic national committee follows:

W. T. Kemper, of Missouri: "Mr. Raskob's request is untimely. It is entirely too early for us to attempt to write a platform on prohibition or anything else."

Mrs. Bernice S. Pyke, of Ohio: "It is not the business of the national committee to fram platform or make recommendations."

Proportion Seen Lost.

Elizabeth Marbury, of New York: "The convention manual was compiled for the use of the National Committee during the convention. It stands for information and not for inspiration. I feel that at this time silence is golden. As regards prohibition I begin to fear that as a nation, we are rapidly losing all sense of proportion, despite the pronouncement of certain individuals that this is to be the all important issue in 1932. God forbid!"

Archibald McNeil, of Connecticut: "I do not consider it the province of the National Committeemen to at this time interpret the wishes and views of the democracies of the several States."

Edward W. Quinn, of Massachusetts: "Prohibition is certainly very much of an issue and I think it is a very important one and should not be shunted aside by the party."

Sedgwick Kistler, of Pennsylvania: "No Democrat believing in Jefferson's fundamental principle of State's rights will see any reason for or fear any danger of a split within the Democratic party as a result of the discussion now under way regarding prohibition. The great issue of the campaign of 1932 will revolve around economic conditions and problems."

Holds It Is for States.

J. Bruce Kremer, of Montana: "The liquor question should be left to the States. There isn't a chance for a split in the Democratic party over prohibition or any other question."

James M. Tunnell, Delaware: "Without commenting upon any of Mr. Raskob's suggestions, which, however, does not mean disapproval or commitment, I will say that Mr. Raskob is in my opinion within his rights in polling the membership of the Democratic national committee on matters that are, or are likely to become, issues. It is commendable in him to endeavor to find out public sentiment. I think the party is fortunate in having a man as chairman who will do this.."

R. F. Mitchell, of Iowa: "There's no split in our ranks. It's all in the viewpoint. The Southern Democrats fear it will mean liquor for the Negroes and Northern Democrats are trying to break up the cause of gangs and crime. Raskob is trying something politically new. He is giving the people a chance to write their own liquor plank instead of waiting until the convention and forcing his own views through."

John M. Callahan, of Wisconsin: "I'm in full accord with Raskob. Our party can not evade or compromise on the prohibition question in the next campaign."

Opposed by Mullen.

Arthur Mullen, of Nebraska: "I believe it unwise for the committee to involve itself in a controversy over platform or candidate. Why not leave the matter of writing the platform and naming the candidate to the national convention? I am opposed to approving the plan proposed by chairman Raskob or any other plan that may be proposed by any one else."

Joseph Wolfe, of Staples, Minn.: "I heartily agree with Chairman Raskob that the Democratic platform should be brief and to the point. I believe prohibition to be one of the major issue in the coming campaign. The Democratic party should stand squarely on the prohibition issue. I believe if the Government controlled sale of intoxicating liquor instead of bootleggers and racketeers, it would do much to lessen crime."

Joseph E. Robinson, of Kentucky, said: "If a declaration by the Democratic national convention in 1932 would settle the question and take it out of politics, it might afford to make the sacrifice, which probably would mean defeat. But the prohibition controversy will go on whether the eighteenth amendment is in the Constitution or not.

"Economic, tax and power issues are more pressing. The Democratic convention had best withhold the declaration and leave it to representatives of both parties in Congress to represent the prohibition sentiment."

3 SHOT BY FLEEING ROBBER IN CHICAGO

Hugo Buck and Henry Miller, followed the fleeing robber into the china department of the basement where they dived at his knees and brought him down.

After hearing accounts of the robbery, varying from Dewey's, police took him to Bridewell Hospital to be questioned.

Accident 14 Years Ago Leads to $25,000 Suit

A suit for $25,000 damages against the Joseph Phillips Co. was instituted yesterday by James C. Cook, of 1614 Thirteenth street northwest, who claims that his left hand was mangled in a sausage grinding machine of the company fourteen years ago.

While he was still in the hospital, he said, an employe of the company told him that if he would refrain from a suit, he would be given life employment. On November 1, 1930, however, he says, he was discharged.

Wounding of Red Deplored by Japan

Tokyo Answers Protest Filed by Russia to Shooting of Anikeieff.

Tokyo April 7 (A.P.).—Japan's reply to the protest of the Russian Government regarding the shooting and wounding of Paul Anikeieff, Soviet Counselor to Japan, on March 16, was handed today to the Soviet Ambassador, Alexander Troyanovsky.

The Japanese again expressed regrets, and stated that Nobukatsu Sato, who is waiting trial for the attempted murder, would be dealt with by the courts in due course.

The note insisted the shooting was purely a personal matter, having had nothing whatever to do with the so-called anti-Soviet movement in Japan, as charged by Moscow.

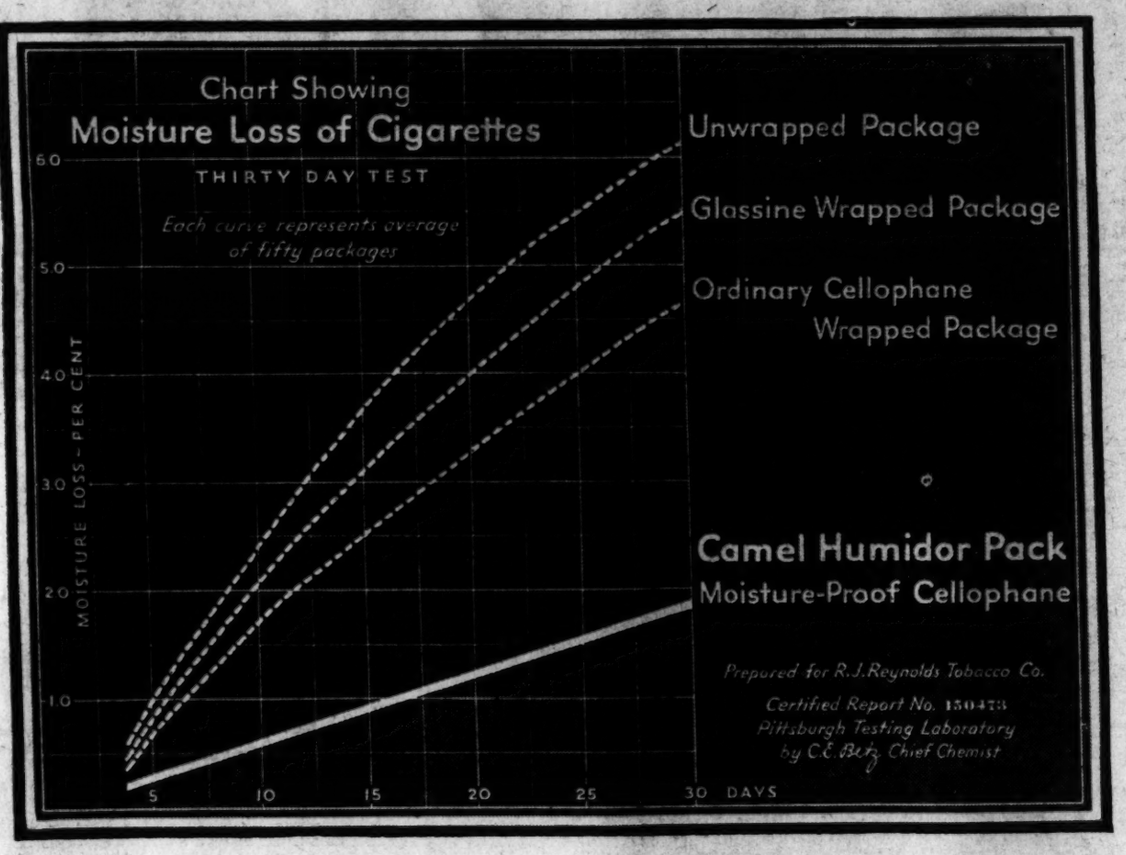
CAMELS are wrapped Only in MOISTURE-PROOF Cellophane



Cigarettes in prime condition have a moisture content of about 10%. It will be seen by the chart that cigarettes in the ordinary wrapped package lose more than half of their total moisture in thirty days and that only the Camel Humidor Pack delivers cigarettes to you in prime condition.

THE whole country is talking about the throat-easy mildness and the factory freshness of Camel Cigarettes in the new Humidor Pack.

The above chart prepared by the Pittsburgh Testing Laboratory tells you why.

Please examine it carefully. It is an unfailing guide to cigarette selection and enjoyment.

As you can quickly see by the three upper curves on this interesting chart, cigarettes that lack the protection of the Humidor Pack lose their moisture rapidly from the day they are manufactured.

And day by day as this moisture disappears, the smoke from these cigarettes becomes harsher, hotter, more unkind to the smoker's throat.

Not so with Camels!

Factory-fresh Camels are air-sealed in the new Sanitary Package which keeps the dust and germs out and keeps the flavor in.

Make these tests yourself

It is so easy to tell the difference between parched dry cigarettes and fresh prime Camels that it is no wonder everybody is reaching for a fresh cigarette today.

Your fingers identify stale, dried-out tobaccos at once. While a Camel is flexible and pliant.

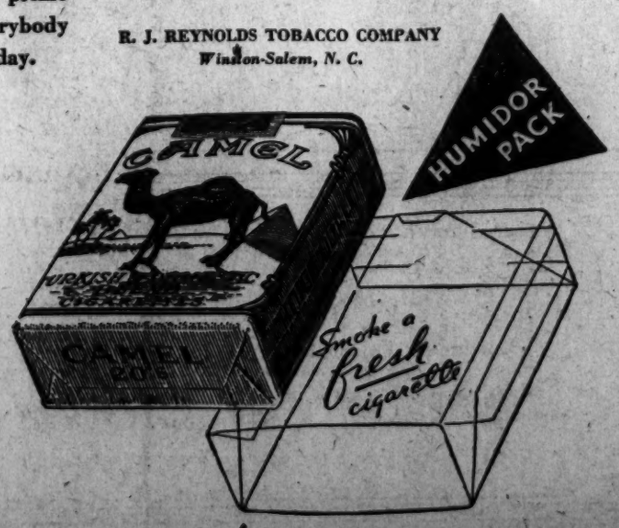
Your ears can tell the difference too. For a dust-dry cigarette crackles under pressure.

But the real test is taste and there is simply no comparison between the rich mildness of a Camel and the hot, brackish smoke from a stale, dry cigarette.

Switch to Camels just for today then leave them tomorrow if you can.

R. J. REYNOLDS TOBACCO COMPANY
Winston-Salem, N. C.

CAMELS



Artificial heat in houses and apartments soon dries the moisture out of cigarettes wrapped the old fashioned way. It is the mark of a considerate hostess, by means of the Humidor Pack, to "Serve a fresh cigarette." Buy Camels by the carton—this cigarette will remain fresh in your home and office.

Says McDonald and Mahaffey Able to Take Turn.

Believes Young Right Handers Will Solve Mound Problem.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., April 7 (A. P.).—Connie Mack sat in his tower office at Shibe Park today and talked about his Athletics—particularly his pitchers. He's changed his opinion about the hurling possibilities for this year.

During the spring training in Florida Mack was doubtful that he had any one under contract who would prove a big help to his mainstays, Lefty Grove and George Earnshaw. Now he believes he has a pair of young right-handers who can take their regular turn in the box with a good chance of winnin and that his pitching problem has been solved.

Hank McDonald, obtained from Portland last winter, and Leroy Mahaffey, with the A's last year, will furnish the extra pitching punch this season, Mack believes.

Praises Both Rookies.

"Both look very good," Mack said. "I was worried while we were in camp. Mahaffey was not showing anything and Shores was out on account of an injured foot. I did not know anything about McDonald. But now I know that both Mahaffey and McDonald are ready. They will help a lot. We can wait for Shores to come along later, and we have Rommel to help out.

"I have great confidence in Walberg, too. He has his speed, his curve and jus tas much on the ball as ever. I think he as a great pitcher."

Mack said he hoped to carry ten pitchers this season. At least until June 15, when the number of players is limited to 25.

All-College Swim Team Dominated by Kojac

New York, April 7 (A.P.).—George Kojac, greatest of the college swimmers and, in the opinion of Coach Bob Kiputh of Yale, "the outstanding swimmer of the entire world as well," once more dominates the annual All-League Team picked for the Associated Press by the coaches of the Eastern Intercollegiate Swimming Association.

Kojac, an Olympic champion before his college career was firmly launched, was the unanimous choice of the eight coaches for the first team in the 220-yard free-style swim and the relay event. He lacked 2 points of winning the 100-yard free-style honors unanimously.

The first teams selections of the coaches, the maximum number of votes being 16:

50-yard free style—Ray Thompson (Navy), 14.

100-yard free style—George Kojac (Rutgers), 14.

220-yard free style—Kojac (Rutgers), 16.

440-yard free style—Kojac (Rutgers), 8; Carl Leedy (Yale), 8.

ANSWER TO YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE

ALTHOUGH St. Thomas established a mark that collegiate baseball teams will be shooting at for some time, they were forced to accept defeat at the hands of Albright College in an overtime tilt. Their sensational and almost unbelievable rally was staged in the closing minutes of play to tie the score, 36 all, but they were beaten in the extra period. In making their four field goals in 16 seconds, only four plays were made, the rival squads hardly getting out of the tap-off position until the fourth goal was scored. The two first goals were scored from the center of the floor, and but one pass was made in each of the next plays.

Charlie Chaplin is probably the only movie actor that ever wore the same costume in all of his pictures. In fourteen years the only change that he has made in his makeup is his mustache, which has become a bit smaller. The shoes, size 14, originally cost $3, and have been kept in shape through very costly repairs.

The wood duck, unlike other ducks, builds its nest in the cavity of a tree. Sometimes the nearest suitable tree is as much as a mile away from a stream. When this is the case, the wood duck faces quite a problem getting her brood to the water. Like a cat carrying its young, she grasps a duckling by the nape of the neck and flies to the water with it, making repeated trips until all of her offspring, which often number 20, are safely transported to their natural habitat.

Sharkey Bout With Primo Looms

New York Fight Body Announce Carnera Ban Will End.

Heavies Scheduled to Meet June 10 at Ebbetts Field.

NEW YORK, April 7 (A.P.).—Any doubt that Primo Carnera, the white whale of Venice, would be reinstated by the New York State Athletic Commission to do battle with Jack Sharkey at Ebbets Field on a huge charity program in June was gracefully removed today.

Officially the solons, in weekly conclave, announced that "sooner or later Carnera will be reinstated," but in one of those intimate "off the record" gatherings after the meeting the latest maneuver in the tangled heavyweight situation was carefully sketched out.

For some time, reports have persisted Jimmy Johnston, erstwhile fight manager, turned promoter in the ball yard of the Brooklyn Robins, had opened his fight with the powerful Madison Square Garden Corporation by bagging one of the few big heavyweight battles that promises to return to profit this year. Today more details were disclosed.

Carnera and Sharkey To Clash June 10.

Carnera and Sharkey are scheduled to meet on the night of June 10 over the 15-round route. Any prior contract the giant Italian has with the Garden for a match with the winner of the Max Schmeling-Young Stribling go this June in Cleveland will be overlooked by the commission. Fifty per cent of the profits of the show will be distributed among 15 New York charities.

The match will be recognized here as for the world's heavyweight championship, thereby running in opposition to the scheduled Schmeling-Stribling title bout, slated for Cleveland in July. Carnera originally was billed to meet the winner of this contest and posted $25,000, which was a binder until the milk fund withdrew from the Western show.

It became known at the same time that months ago when Max Schmeling was stripped of heavyweight recognition by the commission for refusing to give Sharkey a return match, sanction for a Carnera-Sharkey go was offered the Garden by the fathers.

Commissioners Irked by Garden.

The commission asked in return that the Garden give up all connection with the promotion of a Schmeling-Stribling bout. The Garden refused to compromise, however, dared the wrath of the commission, and through a subsidiary, the Illinois Madison Square Garden Corporation, plans to stage the Schmeling-Stribling bout.

Tunney "Not at Home" To Admirers in Turkey

Istambul, Turkey, April 7 (A.P.).—Gene Tunney, former heavyweight champion, and Mrs. Tunney arrived here today unannounced and unrecognized.

The former champion announced that he "was not at home" to numerous Turkish admirers who called at his hotel, after learning of his arrival. The Tunneys are quietly visiting Istambul's mosques, museums, and antiquities.

Capital Youth Bidding For American End Post

A Washington boy, Bruce Quigley, has been performing impressively in the spring football practice at American University and, according to Coach Walter Young, promises to fill one of the end positions on the 1931 Eagle eleven.

Quigley, who had little football experience before enrolling at American University last September, did not try his hand at the sport during the last season. He is now, however, exhibiting natural talent for the game. Weighing 155 pounds, 5 feet 10 inches in height, Quigley is rated one of the fastest players in the squad.

Harry Weeks, 220-pounder from Long Island City, N. Y., is another newcomer in whom Coach Young sees much promise. Weeks is a guard. The squad resumes practice today following an Easter vacation and will continue in action for three weeks.

The Nolan Motor Co. will open its season next Sunday on the home lot opposing the Palisade A. C. Manager Irving wants the following players to report to the field at 1 p. m.: Farrell, Howard, Trundle, Lynch, Ready, Kinnahan, N. Rasenbaum, C. Albert, Dixon, H. Albert, Lewis, Donaldson, B. Rosenbaum, McIwee, White, Jarvis and Smith. The Nolan team will compete in the senior section of the Capital City League this year.

CAPITAL FANS GET FIRST VIEW OF TEAM AIMING AT PENNANT; ROUT CHATTANOOGA, 17 TO 2

Burke Goes Route as Mates Pound Out 17 Safeties.

Hayes and Rice Lead Attack With 5 Hits Each in Game.

Special to The Washington Post.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., April 7.—There has been much complaint about the weak hitting of the Nats this spring, but no one except the Chattanooga Team had reason to make any objections regarding the manner in which they wielded their bludgeons here this afternoon, when they buried the Lookouts under a 17-to-2 score.

The Nats started slowly, getting but one safety in the first inning, but they swung their big berthas into action in the second, and this and the next four rounds proved to be a massacre, netting their 17-run total and their 23 safeties, the last 3 frames netting but 1.

All of Johnson's men figured in the attack, with several getting their bingles in bunches. Jackie Hayes and Sam Rice showed the way with five each, while Heinie Manush, Joe Judge and Roy Spencer were credited with three apiece. Judge and Spencer got a brace of doubles in their allotment.

Burke Impressive On Mound.

Bob Burke pitched for the Nats, and he turned in a mighty fine job During the first eight frames he granted but five hits, while fanning five and walking two. So well did he keep the aliens in check that, until Wes Kingdon poled a homer into the left field stands in the fifth, only one Lookout had wandered as far as third on the runways. The other local run came in the ninth, on Ray Treadway's triple and a useful out.

This not being a serial story, it will be necessary to omit the details of the making of the Washington runs. Suffice to say, four were coined in the second on as many hits and an error, while seven hits and another error gave them six more in the third and sent Pitcher Harry Shild, former Nat, to the showers.

"Chief" Carlos Moore, another former mate, stopped the Nats temporarily as Child's relief, but his slants were knicked for a dozen hits and seven runs in the next three innings. By the time the sixth was completed, the Nats were so tired from hitting balls and running bases that they were retired in quite an orderly fashion thereafter.

Jimmy McLeod Leads Lookout Attack.

Jimmy McLeod, who sported Washington livery last season, was the only Lookout able to get more than one safety off Burke's slants, two one basers being credited him. The others appeared to be swinging wildly most of the time and were baffled by Burke's cross-fire delivery, which made him look like one of the greatest pitchers in the world—today.

In batting practice before today's game Coach Al Schacht was struck on his right instep by a drive from Catcher Cliff Bolton's bat and forced out of action for the day.

Robinson Says 1931 Team Is Dodgers' Best

(This is the second of a series of statements on major league baseball prospects, furnished to the Associated Press by the club managers.)

By WILBERT ROBINSON
(Manager Brooklyn Robins.)

I DO not hesitate to say that the team I am going to start the season with is the strongest I ever had in my career as manager in Brooklyn.

I am not going to say the Robins will win the National League pennant, for there is a hard fight ahead, but you can bet we are going to be one of the contenders. If we do not finish in front we will come closer to the flag than we did last year, for we have plenty of batting and pitching power.

The players have a wonderful chance to get into the next world series. It is up to them to realize that and hustle. If they don't hustle they will hear from me.

Our club is made up of young players this season and everything depends upon how they get away at the start.

This is particularly true of the infield. We have brought up some very promising boys. I have strong hopes they will make good.

The team has great reserve strength and lots more hitting than last year. The spirit also is great.

With every one fighting for jobs, it is a better club than the one that finished sixth in 1930.

Lefty O'Doul is a wonderful batsman and his ability as a hitter is going to give us a punch at the plate which we lacked last year in critical stages. We did not have a regular second baseman last year but now we have Fresco Thompson, who can be depended upon to be on the job every day.

I look for Vance to have another successful season and have reasons to believe Phelps and Luque will pitch as effectively as they did last year. Clark is in good shape and I'm pleased with the way Jack Quinn and Joe Shaute have come along in training. They're going to help us.

I think five clubs in our league will be in the race for the championship: The Robins, Cubs, Cardinals, Giants and Pirates. The Braves have been improved and I expect them to be a source of annoyance to the stronger teams. The Phillies, because of their batting punch, will also make things tough.

Two Players Injured In Brooklyn Practice

Macon, Ga., April 7 (A.P.).—Adolphe Luque, veteran right-handed pitcher, and Harvey Hendrick, utility outfielder, became Brooklyn casualties today when they were injured during batting practice.

Luque was struck on the thumb of his pitching hand by a ball hit by Wally Gilbert. X-ray pictures showed there was no break, but a severe dislocation which will keep him out of the game for at least two weeks.

Hendrick was hit under the left eye by a glancing ball while awaiting his turn at the batting cage. The optic was almost immediately closed, but had the ball hit him higher the injury might have been more serious.

Sutter Wins Easily In Houston Net Play

Houston, Tex., April 7 (A.P.).—Clifford Sutter, of New Orleans national intercollegiate singles champion, easily downed David Peden, of Houston, late today to enter third round play in the River Oaks Country Club invitation tennis tournament. The scores were 6—2, 6—1.

Sutter, seeded at the top along with George Lott of Philadelphia, had trouble with his service. But for that, he would have given Peden a worse drubbing.

Bruce Barnes, the University of Texas ace, had no trouble with W. F. Coen, jr., of Kansas City, defeating him, 6—2, 6—0. It was a first round match.

Sam Jones to Oppose Team's First Major League Foe.

Rise of Hayes, Jordan Prove Surprises of Dixie Stay.

By FRANK H. YOUNG
(Post Staff Correspondent).

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., April 7.—After a lapse of nearly six weeks, during which Washington fans have had nothing but long-distance tales of the doings of the Nats, they will be given an opportunity of forming their own opinions first hand at Griffith Stadium tomorrow afternoon, starting at 3 o'clock. Manager Walter Johnson and his charges are scheduled to pull into the Union Station around 11 o'clock tomorrow morning and four hours later will take the field against the Boston Braves, their first major league opponent of the spring season. "Sad Sam" Jones will pitch for the Nats.

On what the team has shown so far it will be a first-class baseball machine which takes the field tomorrow. Thanks to the strenuous efforts of Trainer Mike Martin, every member of the squad, with the exception of Pitcher Ad Liska, is ready to go—and the subway hurler is in good physical condition, but has been slowed up by a sore arm.

Three Pitchers Have Gone Route.

Three of the pitchers on whom Johnson is depending to be ready to travel at top speed when the opening gong rings have been tested and have come through—Lloyd Brown, Irving Hadley, and Fred Marberry recently having gone through nine-inning shifts in fine style. The other, "Gen." Alvin Crowder, found the route just a trifle too long in Birmingham last Friday, but he showed enough to relieve Johnson of any fears as to whether or not he will be ready for the games that count.

The pennant bee has been buzzing about the bonnets of the players since early this spring and so far nothing has developed which has caused any to change his mind. Both on 1930 dope and on what the Athletics have shown this spring, there is no question but what Johnson has a well-rounded combination which will be there or thereabouts at the finish.

Jordan and Hayes Upset Dope.

The spring training period showed but two upsets in the winter dope. One is the fact that Baxter Jordan beat out Wally Dashiell for the number two infield utility berth and the other is that Jack (Sonny Boy) Hayes appears to be the "fair-haired lad" for second base job at this writing. A slight illness caused Buddy Myer's temporary retirement a week or so ago and Hayes suddenly started hitting when given his chance and is still on the job, and will continue to be until he slumps at bat.

Johnson plans to play these two athletes against each other. Hayes is the better fielder and his pep helps keep the infield on its toes, while Myer is a better natural hitter and has greatly improved on the defense.

Since Hayes has been starting, a minor complication has arisen. It is realized that he is not a good lead-off man and that he is slow afoot on the bases. At best, he is only a fair hitter and Johnson hesitates in moving him down on the list for Bluege, Spencer and the pitcher make the fag end of the batting order weak enough without putting Hayes among them.

Bluege and Spencer Not Consistent.

This latter statement is not intended as a knock at Messrs. Bluege and Spencer, they'll get their hits on occasions, and, no doubt, break up many a game for the team throughout the season, but their records show that they are not consistent.

Hayes is expected to start at second in Washington tomorrow, but Myer is regarded mighty highly by his boss and neither need worry about not seeing plenty of action during the coming season. Johnson is fortunate in having two such good men on hand.

Outfielder Tom Clark, a brother of Earl, of the Boston Braves, both of whom are Washington boys, failed to make the grade with the Lookouts and has been turned back to the Nats. He probably will be given a chance by the Hagerstown Club, in which Clark Griffith is interested.

A. A. U. Head Protests Action of Own Club

Chicago, April 7 (A.P.).—Avery Brundage, president of the National Amateur Athletic Union and the Olympic committee, has resigned as vice chairman of the athletic committee of the Chicago Athletic Association as a protest against its recent withdrawal from national competition in sports.

The C. A. A., was prominent in interclub track and swimming competition for many years, especially in A. A. U. meets. The members are reported divided on the question of renewing their activity in the national field. Interclub contests are being sponsored instead.

Brundage, thrice national all-around champion, retained his place on the C. A. A. board of directors.

CUBS BEATEN BY TEXAS TEAM

Fort Worth Hammers Guy Bush for 14 Hits in 9-6 Win.

FORT WORTH, Tex., April 7 (A.P.).—The Cubs found the task of winning baseball games just as hard in Texas as in California today. They tackled the Fort Worth Cats and took a beating 9 to 6.

Guy Bush, pitching the route for the Cubs, was found for fourteen hits. The Cats won out in the eighth, scoring four runs on three hits, two errors and a base on balls. Kiki Cuyler gave Manager Rogers Hornsby some consolation, rapping out three doubles.

Moodys Decline to Buy Tickets to Tilden Match

San Francisco, April 7 (A.P.).—Helen Wills Moody, tennis star, and her husband, Frederick S. Moody, jr., local broker, walked away from an exhibition tennis match here last night between William (Big Bill) Tilden and Karel Kozelum when it was found no passes had been left at the box office for them.

Versions of what happened differed. Ed Lynch, promoter of the match, said Mrs. Moody was admitted "on her face," but that her husband was detained a few minutes because no pass had been left for him.

Mrs. Moody told reporters today neither she nor her husband saw the match. She said she and her husband had been invited and found on arriving at the hall where the match was held there were no passes. Whereupon the Moodys departed, declining to buy tickets.

Reports agreed Moody "had some words" with the doorman.

Shoffner Baffles New Orleans as Mates Gain 11-3 Victory.

NEW ORLEANS, La., April 7 (A. P.).—The Cleveland Indians today celebrated camp-breaking day by blasting New Orleans pitchers for 17 hits and an 11-3 victory.

The red-headed rookie, "Pinky" Shoffner, gave one of the best pitching exhibitions of any Indian so far this spring. The Pelicans made their three hits, including Oulliber's home run, count for three runs in the second. Shoffner's smokeball fooled four batters and made most of the others hit weakly for easy outs. Lew Fonseca hit a terrific home run over the left field wall, while his erstwhile rival for first base, Eddie Morgan, made a couple of singles, and tried third basing. He made one error in two fielding chances.

League to Reconsider Coach-Trainer Ban

New York, April 7 (A.P.).—The question of barring coaches and trainers from the bench during play in the Eastern Intercollegiate Baseball League, a point on which an affirmative ruling already has been made, is to be discussed at an executive committee meeting called for Friday.

Ellwood W. Kemp, jr., secretary-treasurer of the league, said that the widespread opposition to the ruling among the players, who want the coaches to direct the strategy, had brought the decision to call the executive committee into session to consider the matter.

Columbia, Yale, Pennsylvania, Cornell, Princeton and Dartmouth are members of the league.

Bulk of Ban Johnson Estate Willed to Marietta College

CHICAGO, April 7 (A.P.).—Marietta College, of Marietta, Ohio, will receive the bulk of the estate of Byron Bancroft Johnson, late baseball chief, under terms of his will.

The size of Johnson's estate was not revealed, but it was said to be well over $250,000.

Under the terms, revealed today, his widow, a brother and a sister-in-law are to have annuities from the estate until their deaths, when the remainder of the estate is to be turned over to the college, Johnson's alma mater.

The widow is to receive $6,000 annually; his brother, William R. Johnson, of Coronado, Calif., is to receive $5,000 a year, while his sister-in-law, Mrs. Mary Hamilton, of Medaryville, Md., is to receive an annuity of $600.

Two other legatees were named in the document, which was signed by the former American League president last March 3, or 25 days before his death. They are Miss Evelyn O'Connor, a cousin, who is bequeathed $25,000, and Miss Florence Johnson, another cousin, who is left $10,000.

DUNLAP WINS PINEHURST MEDAL

Princeton Star Tops North-South Field by 10 Strokes.

PINEHURST, N. C., April 7 (A.P.).—George T. Dunlap, jr., of New York, Princeton linksman and intercollegiate champion, romped home ten strokes ahead of the field to win the medalist honor today in the thirty-first annual North and South amateur golf tournament.

Dunlap shot a 73 to go with his 72 of yesterday for a 36-hole qualifying score of 145. Despite a stiff breeze, the New Yorker gave a brilliant exhibition of control. He was out in 36 and back in 37. His putting was a strong feature of his game. On the sixth he sank a 25-footer for an eagle 3 and on the eleventh he shot a birdie 3.

Ten strokes behind came Eugene Homans, of Englewood, N. J., another Princeton entry and winner of the tournament last year. Homans went around in 76, or three strokes better than the 79 he shot in the first 18 holes. He came home in 39 after going out in 37.

Georgetown Student Scores 159.

Robert G. Morrison, of Pittsburgh, shot an 80 today, which, with his 78 of yesterday, gave him 158 and third place. Richard Wilson, of Southern Pines, a Georgetown University golfer, was one stroke behind him with 159.

A slump caught T. S. Taller, of Newport, R. I., and Richard S. Tufts, of Pinehurst, who yesterday finished in a tie at 77 for second place. Tufts shot an 84 today and Taller an 86. The former thereby went into a tie with three others for sixth place, at 161.

Other scores were: B. Warren Corkran, Baltimore, 80-80—160; S. M. Parks, jr., Pittsburgh, 82-81—163; R. A. Stranahan, Toledo, Ohio, 83-82—165.

George Wood, popular manager of the Miller-Roamer Seniors, is taking advantage of the rainy weather to have a minor operation performed on his nose. George is in Providence Hospital, but he is expected to be out either today or tomorrow.

The Colonial Peewees are after games for this week. Manager Louis Dickson is booking at Georgia 4283.

DURVA SCORES AS MISHAP CHEATS KING BOGGEN

Near-Tragedy Marks Race At Bowie

Whitney Colt, in Lead Near Finish, Stumbles Over Webbing.

Almost Falls With Robertson in Saddle, But Runs Second.

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

A SMALL crowd shivered in a cold and continuous rain, mingled with snow, at Bowie yesterday while the horses ran to form. The jockeys were so bespattered that the placing judges knew their identity only by the numbers on their sleeves, as the figures on the saddle cloths were made illegible by the mud.

What might have proved a tragedy was averted in the fifth race when C. V. Whitney's King Boggen caught his left fore foot in the rope-ladder webbing near the finish and vaulted into the air, loosening his foot and escaped falling with Jockey A. Robertson, whose life was in great danger for an instant. Of course, King Boggen lost the race to the Nevada Stock Farm's filly, Durva, which happened to be running second, but the Whitney gelding, in a stumbling way, held the place four lengths in front of Mine Sweeper. King Boggen was beaten two lengths, but was in the lead and would have won easily had it not been for the accident.

Sea Fox Leads To Far Turn.

Sea Fox, the second choice to the favorite, King Boggen, led to the far turn by several lengths, but began shortening his stride and finished out of the money. King Boggen moved up after passing the far turn and, on the outside, advanced to the front as all appeared easy sailing for the son of Whisk Broom II—Princess Pandora. P. Remillard, on Durva, had passed the tiring horses and became the challenger. Nearing the finish, the webbing which was used to keep the horses on the inside of the track in races started out of the shute at the sixteenth pole, was stretched along the inner rail and so covered with mud that neither horse nor rider could discern it, thus becoming a formidable trap for the inside horse which happened to be King Boggen.

The Whitney gelding ran his first race a few days ago and won in an impressive way, after he had been cut off several times. He was marked by the spectators as a development of the year that would win many stakes. Durva paid $23.50. The time was 1:27 3-5 for 7 furlongs.

Electric Line Wreck Delays Fans.

A wreck on the electric line near the Bowie switch delayed some of the racing trains. No one was injured on the derailed freight cars.

F. J. Buchanan's Efjaybee, with George Ellis up, won the first race for 2-year-olds, a half length in front of English Knight. Hasola was third, a half length separating the last two. The winner was favored, paying $7.30. Traffic Judge got into the deepest going, on the rail, and only lasted to the eighth pole. He was well supported. Hasola was $15.60 to show. The time was 0:49 3-5 for the half mile. Traffic Judge got away two lengths in front, but began tiring rounding into the stretch, after going wide. Eleven started.

Your Flag Never Headed in Second.

Your Flag, 3-year-old filly, by American Flag—Ring Tale, formerly owned by Mrs. Walter M. Jeffords, but now in the stable of D. C. Harrison, led all the way in the second race, winning by a half-length from Mrs. E. Weiss' Anchor Light. Mrs. W. C. Trover's Polylith was third, and San Presto fourth. C. Pegg had the mount on the winner.

Your Flag never left the result in doubt from the instant she stepped out from the half-mile gate, but in the stretch she was extended to withstand the challenge of the two horses behind her. She was grouped in the field with Sweep Past and Mina F. They ran the six furlongs in 1:15. The field paid $11.10. Anchor Light was an outsider, and paid $43.10 for place. This was the first field horse to win at this meeting. The race was for 3-year-olds.

Negodale Reveals in Muddy Going.

Miss Blanche Watson's Negodale, a superior mudder, won the third race, which made his third victory at this meeting. He was the outstanding favorite, paying $4.40. Danish Prince was second, but was beaten off five lengths. Bask was third, a half-length behind. Seven started. Time for a mile and one-sixteenth was 1:51 4-5.

D. Meade restrained Negodale off the pace to half way of the back stretch, while Danish Prince was leading, but before entering the home stretch Negodale was in front, and drawing away. The Negofol gelding was a legitimate 1-to-2 shot in the mud.

The Dorwood Stable's Toney Princess, the favorite and the third public choice to win in four races, won the Martha Washington purse for fillies and mares, fourth on the card. D. Meade kept the Black Toney filly in front all the way and she won by a length. This was her second victory of the meeting, and a double today for Jockey Meade. F. Sansome's filly, Black Patricia, Remillard up, was second, and Rocket Glare, C. Pegg riding, third, a length and a half separating the second and third horses. The other starter was Little Gyp. Lady Capulet was scratched. The time was 1:28, seven furlongs. Toney Princess paid $4.10. Little Gyp kept closest to the pace to the stretch, when Black Patricia got second. Rocket Glare did not like the track.

Buddy Basil Lasts To Win Sixth.

Buddy Basil, carrying the colors of J. F. O'Neal, with Froggate on his back, won the sixth race, but just lasted to get the decision by a nose from Druggist, and Genial Host was third. Buddy Basil was at home in the mud and well ridden. Druggist saved ground on the turn and made a determined finish. Ruby Keller disappointed. The winner paid $13.

D. Homewood's Fairdale repeated by winning the seventh race by a half length from the second horse. Bright Day, and Tang was third. A. Pascuma had the mount on the winner, and a $2 ticket returned $8.40. This, like most of the races on the card, suffered by scratching.

SPAULDING BRINGS RESULTS.

The University of California at Los Angeles never won a football game until Coach Bill Spaulding came to the Bruin school.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—YOUR FLAG (field), $11.10, $7.00, $4.10; ANCHOR LIGHT, $43.10, $21.40; POLYLITH, $4.30.

YOUR FLAG favored the going and, displaying excellent speed, opened up a lone lead in the early running, but weakened in the stretch and was hard ridden to outlast ANCHOR LIGHT when the final test came. The latter gradually improved her position and finished going strongest of the field. POLYLITH, well up all the way, faltered in the last furlong.

THIRD RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:37. Off at 3:37. Winner, Miss B. Two-dollar mutuels paid—NEGODALE, $4.40, $2.80, $2.50; DANISH PRINCE, $6.10, $4.70; BASK, $3.30.

NEGODALE followed the pace close up under stout restraint until midway around the lever turn, where he took command at his leisure and drew clear entering the stretch to win as his rider pleased. DANISH PRINCE, quickest to get going, was steadied in front all the way, but was no match for the winner the final quarter mile. BASK, hard ridden throughout, held on well the last furlong to hold GREY GULL safe. The latter had no mishaps. CURATOR was eased up after going six furlongs.

FOURTH RACE—Seven furlongs. Purse, $1,400. The Martha Washington. For 3-year-old fillies and mares. Start good from stalls. Won handily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:06. Off at 4:04. Two-dollar mutuels paid—TONEY PRINCESS, $4.10, $3.50, out; BLACK PATRICIA, $2.60, out; ROCKET GLARE, out.

TONEY PRINCESS, at home in the going, took command at the start and, rated in front all the way, always held her opposition safe to win lightly urged. BLACK PATRICIA trailed the field well out for the first five furlongs, then responded gamely when called upon and shook off ROCKET GLARE the final furlong, but could not overtake the winner. ROCKET GLARE moved up rapidly rounding the turn, but then faltered in the going in the stretch run. LITTLE GYP showed early speed, but retired the last quarter mile.

FIFTH RACE—Seven furlongs. Purse, $1,200. The Capitol. For 3-year-olds. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place, ridden out. Went to post at 4:29. Off at 4:29½. Two-dollar mutuels paid—DURVA, $23.50, $7.30, $4.40; KING BOGGEN, $3.10, $2.50; MINE SWEEPER, $2.90.

DURVA, taken in hand the early running, moved up steadily on the outside the final half mile and, closing gamely through the stretch under strong urging, was unable to overhaul KING BOGGEN, who took command in the last quarter when the latter swerved into the temporary fence. KING BOGGEN, stoutly restrained, but racing in close pursuit of the leader the first five furlongs, assumed command when called upon, but swerved and became entangled in the rope fence and almost fell. He recovered and hurdled the rope strands near the finish and held third place safely. MINE SWEEPER, on the inside the early stages, came to the outside the last quarter mile and outlasted HOLD HARD in the final drive. The latter raced under pressure the entire trip and finished stoutly. SEA FOX opened up a good lead on the back stretch, but began tiring after entering the stretch, then stopped badly the final eighth.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:58½. Off at 5:00½. Winner, J. L. Two-dollar mutuels paid—BUDDY BASIL, $13.00, $5.40, $3.20; DRUGGIST, $3.90, $2.70; GENIAL HOST, $4.10.

BUDDY BASIL, running to his best form, drew clear when straightened out in the back stretch. He was steadied in front and continued gamely under punishment to outlast DRUGGIST when the final test came. DRUGGIST, rated off the early pace, gradually improved his position under punishment on the inside and would have won by another stride. GENIAL HOST, hustled into the lead going to the lever turn, was rated off the early pace and closed stoutly when called upon the last furlong. SPANFLOW could never improve his position. RUBY KELLER had no mishaps.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:31½. Off at 5:31½. Winner, D. Two-dollar mutuels paid—FAIRDALE, $8.40, $5.00, $3.10; BRIGHT DAY, $6.70, $4.20; TANG, $2.90.

FAIRDALE, away forwardly, was restrained well back of the early pace. Improved position on outside rounding last bend and were down leaders inside furlong pole to win going away. BRIGHT DAY, displaying a liking for the footing, closed powerfully in last quarter mile, but hung in the concluding strides as though short. TANG set all the early pace, but tired from excessive use when the final issue came. SEA SCAMP, a forward factor for seven furlongs, weakened sharply when asked for his best. MEANDER showed speed for six furlongs.

Vosmik Natural Leading Hitter

Leading a league in batting is no novelty for Joe Vosmik, the 21-year-old outfield sensation who is breaking in with the Cleveland Indians this spring. It is a habit with him.

JOE VOSMIK

His first season in the game, 1929, he led the Blue Ridge League, and last season clouted a big .397 for Terre Haute to pace the Three-I. Included in his 1930 collection were 25 doubles, 15 triples and 13 home runs.

As Vosmik was born in Cleveland, his hitch with the Indians entails no particular thrill. He has been watching the Redskins perform most of his life. He learned to play on the Cleveland sandlots and was with several strong semipro clubs before he caught the eye of an Indian scout.

Vosmik's prize feat last year saw him get eight hits in ten times up in a doubleheader against Danville. He hit five for five in an exhibition tilt with Pittsburgh. He bats and throws right.

P. REMILLARD NOW LEADS JOCKEYS

King Boggen Mishap Cheats Robertson of Top Position.

Special to The Washington Post.

BOWIE RACE TRACK, Md., April 7.—Pat Remillard, sensation of the recent New Orleans meeting, took the lead among the jockeys at Bowie today by scoring a lone victory while A. Robertson, with whom he was tied this morning with nine wins each, failed to land a winner among his four mounts.

It was only the greatest bit of luck, however, that enabled Remillard to top Robertson for the latter was on King Boggen in the fifth race when his mount almost went down after becoming entangled in the webbing, thus allowing Remillard, on Durva, to gain the decision.

Joseph McLennan, race secretary of the Harford Agricultural and Breeders Association, whose spring meeting opens Monday at Havre de Grace, stated today that entries for the racing in Harford County would be taken every morning at Pimlico.

Matthias L. Daiger, secretary-general manager of the Maryland Jockey Club, has granted the Havre de Grace officials permission to use his office every morning to take entries. Freddie Parks, one of McLennan's assistants will take the entries up to 10:15 a. m. and phone same into Havre de Grace.

This is being done for the convenience of the horsemen who are quartered at Pimlico who are unable to secure stall space at Havre de Grace.

Charlie Meister vanned Matt Cremens' Miss Fayette from the DeMoss Farm to Janon Fischer's farm, where she will be bred to Constitution.

Harry Pearsall, of Baltimore, today received his trainer's license from the Jockey Club of New York.

More than $421,000 was wagered yesterday, despite the fact that the weather cut in on the attendance. However, over 10,000 fans were on hand with over 9,000 programs being put out by the Turf Printing Co.

There are thirteen bad actors on the schooling list with the adding of Live One.

Jockey J. Tiner was feeling under the weather this morning and canceled his engagements for the day.

S. W. Labrot's Rocket Glare carried 108 pounds in the Martha Washington instead of 103 as sent out in the overnight entries.

The heavy rain, which started last night and which was still in evidence at noon turned the track into a sea of slop, causing 30 horses to decline the issue. It was a bad break for the Southern Maryland Agricultural Association as Track Superintendent Dick Pending had brought his course to its best yesterday.

Race Secretary Joseph McLennan will back up the $2,500 Bowie Kindergarten on Thursday with excellent preliminaries. He is also working on an all-star card for Saturday, which will be headed by the $5,000 Prince Georges (Spring) Handicap.

Forty different stables have taken down purses up to and including yesterday's racing, while 39 different trainers have saddled winners.

Edward Burke, general manager of the Harford Agricultural and Breeders Association, is making great preparations for his charity race program to be offered April 13 at the Havre de Grace course. The proceeds will be turned over to Maryland's unemployment fund.

Havre de Grace, due to its giving April 13 to charity, will be enabled to offer twelve days' racing in the fall.

Thomas Kirby Lynch, well-known chart maker, is ill at his apartment in Baltimore.

Raymond (Sonny) Workman's broken leg has mended so rapidly that he plans to test it out by galloping one of C. V. Whitney's horses here this week, providing the track dries out a bit.

Charlie Meister vanned 28 of Jim Healy's charges from Benning to Pimlico today.

Dutch Brennan, one of Dad Farrell's office staff, is ill at his home in Baltimore.

Lady Capulet, who is quartered at Pimlico, was scratched from today's card. Wonder if the trip she would have been forced to make here had anything to do with it?

George Alexander, of Canada, one of the best liked of the younger horsemen now racing here, is the proud father of an 11-pound bouncing baby boy. According to George, the baby and Mrs. Alexander are doing nicely at their home in Baltimore.

Jockey Eddie Benham is receiving congratulations from fellow riders on the arrival of a 7-pound boy four days ago. Mrs. Benham and her son are doing nicely.

BETHESDA SEEKS GAME.

The Bethesda Fire Department would like to arrange a game for next Sunday. Arrangements can be made by calling Manager Murdock at Bradley 651. The team will drill Saturday at 3 p. m. on the Garrett Park Field.

D. C. WOMEN'S GOLF MEET ADVANCED

Title Tourney Shifted to May 25 to Avoid Date Conflict.

THE date of the District of Columbia Women's Golf Championship Tournament was advanced from June 8 to May 25 yesterday at a meeting of the District Women's Golf Association at the home of the president, Mrs. Frank E. Keefer. It will be played at the Congressional Country Club.

The change was made to avoid conflict with the annual championship event of the Women's Southern Golf Association, which will be played on the Princess Anne Course, Norfolk, Va., during the week of June 8.

It was also decided to allow all unattached players to compete in the tournament of the Women's District Golf Association, except the major events, the Phyllis Keeler Memorial Trophy, the District Amateur, and the competition for the trophy presented by Mrs. William S. Corby, former president of the association. An annual entrance fee of $1 will be charged.

Unattached Players Must Submit Cards.

Unattached players will be asked to submit cards of their best five scores, duly attested, and out-of-town players also will be required to submit the same basis for handicap allowance.

The first women's event of the season will be staged on the course of the Chevy Chase Club next Monday. In addition to an 18-hole medal play handicap there will be match play between opponents, selected between themselves, and in this competition all stymies will be barred.

SCHOOLS PLAY 2 GAMES TODAY

Gonzaga Nine To Engage Business

Central-Emerson Also to Clash if Fields Are in Shape.

Coach Kelley Seeking to Develop Sprinters at Eastern.

THE oft-delayed opening of the scholastic baseball season is slated to put in an appearance this afternoon, providing a providential sun appears to render the Monument Grounds diamonds measurably less swampy. Four teams are ready to set the ball rolling. Central being on the books to meet Emerson and Business being scheduled to engage Gonzaga. Both games are listed for 3:30 o'clock.

Coach Ty Rauber announced last night that he had made his selection for regular berths on the 1931 Central team. Rauber chose his team after the stiff drill Monday morning before showers sent the Blue and White players to the showers. In announcing his selections last night, Rauber stated that these would be the boys who would take the trip to Lexington, Va., tomorrow, where Central will meet Washington and Lee Freshmen, followed by the Virginia Freshmen, at Charlottesville on Friday.

Cook and Kiernan Are Catchers.

Cook and Kiernan, veterans from last year, are Rauber's selections for catching berths. Cook, doubtless, will receive the major portion of the duties. Buscher, a recruit from Tech; De Bettencourt, Myers and Wright make up the Central pitching staff for the season. Hank Broadbent, ace of the basket ball team, is the candidate for first base, with White as an understudy.

Rounding out the infield are Miller, second base; Heflin, short stop, and Colliflower, third base. Thompson is the choice for left field, Klaben, center field, and Butler, right field.

Rauber is not too proud of the team, but believes that if the weather ever opens up a week of good practice would turn them into a presentable group of ball players. At that, Emerson should offer but scant opposition today, Coach Keller having been unable to give his team much preliminary treatment.

Gonzaga Favored Over Business.

The Business-Gonzaga game promises to offer more evenly contested play, with the odds favoring the purple over the Stenogs. Gonzaga has held about a dozen good practices, while Business, although possessing three all-high players in its line-up—Duryee and Pratantuono, outfielders, and Snyder, infielder, has been in uniform but once. The occasion was the Episcopal game, Saturday, with Business losing, 5 to 1.

Coach Mike Kelley will have his track students out this morning in an effort to round them into shape for their first meet of the outdoor season, Friday, against Episcopal. Kelley, convinced that he has the two best hurdlers in the local and nearby scholastic business, Slye and Everttt, is concentrating on breaking into the sprint winnings after something of a vacation. Tony Palmer, the swarthy Lincoln Park gridman, who is built close to the ground, has begun to find his stride at last. Kelley believes that he will make his presence felt in a big way in sprinting events this year. He won the C. U. meet's 50-yard dash.

CUBS AND PIRATES PRIMED FOR OPENING GAME

Some of the leading batsmen of the National League will start their drives for high averages April 14 when Chicago and Pittsburgh meet in their opening game at Chicago. Among them are Hack Wilson, 1930 home run king; Woody English and Rogers Hornsby, of the Cubs; while Paul Waner and Pie Traynor are two of Manager Jewel Ens' Pirate sluggers.

9-1 LACROSSE VICTORY FOR ST. JOHN'S

U. S. Champs Down Georgia With Ease on Muddy Field.

Special to The Washington Post.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 7.—Seeking their third consecutive national championship, St. John's College lacrossemen this afternoon opened the 1931 campaign by slipping and slopping their way to a 9 to 1 win over the University of Georgia on the local sward.

Played on a field already ankle deep in mud and water and with a driving rain falling throughout, the Orange and Black could not gain the footing necessary to flash their best game, but the team displayed general prowess in rolling up the easy victory.

The attack out with its usual brilliance, but accuracy was impossible owing to the miry turf. The Athens Bulldogs were no match for the skilled Johnnies.

Lead by 7 to 1 At Half.

At the close of the first half the Johnnies had a 7 to 1 margin, the visitors having scored on a goal by Moncrief in the final seconds. The second period, curtailed because of weather, found St. John's bombarding the Georgia goal throughout, but shooting wild for the most part, to be held to two points.

Pool, the Johnnie captain, scored before 50 seconds had been played. This flashy lad found the net four more times during the game, although he was removed for a substitute.

G. U. CANCELS GAME FOR TODAY

Boston College Contest Victim of 5th Postponement.

ANOTHER bull's-eye for Old Man Weather was rung up yesterday in his battle with local college ball players who have been trying vainly for the past two weeks to open their home season. In midafternoon the authorities at Georgetown University called off the Hilltop-Boston College game, scheduled for today, when they sorrowfully viewed the muddy mass that is supposed to be Georgetown's field.

It was the fifth enforced cancellation Georgetown has made thus far, and Old Man Weather's batting average remains at the 1.000 mark.

But tomorrow is another day and the Hilltoppers will try once more to play, their opponents being the Tigers, of Princeton, who are on their annual Southern tour. Weather and field conditions permitting, the game will begin at 3:30 o'clock. Last year Georgetown defeated Princeton twice, winning 7 to 4 here and 5 to 2 on the Tigers' diamond.

Maryland University's nine, which also has been unable to inaugurate its home campaign, is scheduled to meet North Carolina in a doubleheader on Friday at College Park. The twin bill was arranged following the cancellation of a game scheduled at Chapel Hill, N. C., last week.

On Saturday Maryland is listed to engage Harvard at College Park, while at the same place the Terrapin Lacrosse Team will entertain Washington College. The lacrosse team managed to open its season last Monday when it trampled Georgia, 20 to 3.

Georgetown's golf team, now performing at Pinehurst, N. C., is carded for a match here Saturday with Boston College. The scene will be Congressional Country Club.

8 MARYLAND BALL TEAMS IN LEAGUE

Capital City Section to Be Formed Monday at Meeting.

THE Maryland section of The Post's City League will be organized at a meeting in room 2 of the District Building next Monday night, starting at 8 o'clock.

Eight entries, headed by the champion Takoma Tigers, are expected in the 1931 league race. Others who will more than likely be represented are the Rockville and Kensington Fire Departments, Chevy Chase, Bethesda and Silver Spring. All indications point to one of the closest races ever witnessed in this section.

The Capital City Senior League managers gathered for their last session before the opening of the season last night and slightly revised two rules. The deadline on players' ages was moved from June 15 back to June 1. They also agreed on a ruling that provides that each player on every team shall be obliged to appear in five of his team's league game lineups, to be eligible to receive an award at the end of the season.

The changes were proposed by Bert Olmsted, and won almost unanimous approval from the other managers present. The senior section begins play May 17 with franchise fees and players' contracts being posted not later than May 13.

The midget section of the Capital City League will conduct its final meeting Friday night at 8 o'clock in room 2 of the District Building. There is still time for those who have not yet entered to sign up by getting in touch with the secretary at The Post.

50,000 Fans on Coast See 4 Opening Games

San Francisco, April 7 (A.P.).—Baseball received a tumultous welcome today as the 1931 Pacific Coast League season opened with games in four California cities.

Nearly 50,000 fans turned out for the contests, played at San Francisco, Oakland, Sacramento and Los Angeles. Warm weather prevailed.

San Francisco's seals dedicated their new $1,250,000 stadium with an 8-to-0 win over Portland. Sam Gibson, down from the New York Yankees, held the visitors to five hits. Slightly more than 20,000 persons watched Ty Cobb, former Detroit Tiger star, swing and miss the first ball pitched by Mayor Angelo Rossi, of San Francisco.

Hollywood's stars, coast league champions for the last two years, turned back Sacramento's Senators, 6 to 3, before a crowd of 10,000.

The largest city on the coast, Los Angeles, turned out the smallest crowd with only 6,000 spectators watching Seattle beat out the hometowners, 3 to 1.

Eastman Kodak Close To Record Year, 1929

Rochester, N. Y., April 7 (A.P.).—Net earnings of the Eastman Kodak Co. and subsidiaries for 1930 exceeded by 84 cents a share its dividend payments of $8 on the common stock, its annual report released today, showed.

Total net income amounted to $20,353,788, surpassing, with the exception of the record-breaking year of 1929, all previous results. It compared with net profit of $22,004,915, or $9.57 a share, in 1929.

After the payment of dividends for 1930, $1,894,866 was added to surplus, bringing that item at the end of the year to $84,675,404. The company has no bonded indebtedness. Current assets were carried at $86,559,183, including $16,678,605 in cash, at the end of the year.

DIXIE TEAMS TURN BACK INVADERS

South's College Nines Have Won 15 of 25 Games Thus Far.

By DILLON GRAHAM.

ATLANTA, Ga., April 7 (A.P.).—Riding the victory path blazed last fall by their brothers of the gridiron, Southern college baseball players have slammed out enough hits to win 15 of their 25 intersectional games this spring.

Dixie daimond teams have rolled up a .800 percentage in their series with undergraduate squads from Eastern and Midwestern colleges. Of the fifteen games played in the South through Monday, the Easterners have won six and lost nine. The Western representatives dropped six out of ten. Both show the same .400 percentage.

The advantage has rested with the South in these games because of the home playing field and also the longer period of outdoor practice available. Several of the visiting teams had not played outside their indoor cages prior to the contests.

The visiting teams included Minnesota, Georgetown, Illinois, Dartmouth, Yale, Pennsylvania, Cornell, Michigan State, Drexel, Princeton and Penn State.

Their opponents were Mississippi, Washington and Lee, Louisiana State, William and Mary, North Carolina, Alabama, Duke, Virginia Military Institute, Vanderbilt, Virginia, Wake Forest, Bridgewater and Mississippi A. & M.

Yale Only Invader To Escape Defeat.

Only Yale of the visiting teams escaped defeat. The Elis downed Virginia twice. Illinois and Georgetown broke even. The Illini lost two to Alabama, but won from Mississippi A. & M., while Georgetown won from V. M. I. and lost to Washington and Lee. Michigan State won but one of its four games, while Cornell and Minnesota lost two out of three.

North Carolina, Alabama and Duke won two, while Washington and Lee and Louisiana State won one without defeat. Mississippi won three, but lost two.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, April 7 (A.P.).—Cotton was lower today under a renewal of liquidation and scattered selling which seemed to be inspired by the relatively easy showings of Liverpool and Alexandria, rather disappointing figures on world consumption for February, and a more favorable view of the weather news. July cotton sold off to 10.55, making a net decline of 17 points and new low ground for the current movement. Closing prices were the lowest of the day on the general list with the market barely steady at net declines of 15 to 17 points.

The opening was steady 2 to 5 points lower in response to the weakness of Liverpool and Alexandria, which reopened for business following the Easter holidays, today. There was considerable trade buying and covering and after showing net losses of about 8 to 9 points, the market steadied up slightly, but soon weakened again under continuation of the selling movement. Reports that the South was selling a little more freely here created an impression that some cotton might be coming out with the approach of the planting season, and there was selling by houses with Liverpool and Continental connections. This appeared to encourage some local selling, but a good part of the offerings were attributed to liquidation of old long accounts. The decline carried July to 10.57 for May and 10.82 for October in the late trading and closing prices were the lowest of the day and movement on all positions except for October which closed at 10.59.

Liquidation of May was again in evidence, partly against purchases in the later months, and there was considerable switching during the day without much change in the differences. New York Cotton Exchange service estimated world's consumption of American line cotton for February at 904,000 bales against 1,055,000 last year.

Liverpool cables said the market there was on account of hedgings and liquidation with a poor offtake and that buyers of cotton cloths and yarns were cautious. Egyptian cotton futures in Alexandria were 14 to 16 points lower for Ashmouni while Sakallarides showed a decline of 75 to 81 points from last Wednesday's quotations. Exports today, 16,624 making 5,761,147 so far this season. Port receipts 7,567. U. S. port stocks 3,660,341.

RAIL STOCKS DROP; SOME TO NEW LOWS

Steel Continues Weak as Copper Sags; Firm Oils Fail to Aid Mart.

New York, April 7 (A.P.).—Shorts had the best of it in today's financial markets.

Stocks—worried by lack of public or other support, a cut in copper and the retreat of steel operations from the March peak—made one dismal attempt at a rally and then declined. Railroad bonds eased, while Brazilians broke badly. Cotton, wheat, corn and silver were all lower.

Net losses in stocks ran from 1 to 4 points in an important list of active issues, and although the turnover amounted to only 2,200,000 shares, sentiment was unfavorably affected by the continued weakness of steels and resumption of selling in rails. Several of the latter, including New York Central, Union Missouri and Northern Pacifics, Wabash "A" preferred and Frisco, made new lows. So did U. S. Steel and Westinghouse, among the industrials. There was scattered covering just before the close.

Oils Show Firmness.

The market's best showing was in the second hour coincident with the appearance of firmness in the oils. Preliminary estimated of crude production for last week reported a decrease and there was a little covering in some of the stocks, notably Standard of New Jersey. However, this bit of news was more than offset by a shading of copper to 9½ cents, equaling last year's low, and by a forecast that steel ingot production in the last week had dropped nearly 3 points to little more than 52 per cent of capacity.

U. S. Steel, at its low of 135¼, was less than a point from the 1930 minimum. The net loss was just a point. Bethlehem had to meet a sharp bear drive which drove it down 5, followed by a slight recovery. General Electric, American Can, General Motors, Woolworth, Consolidated Gas, American Telephone, Anaconda and American Smelting Lost 1 to 2 points.

Fox Film broke more than 4 in anticipation of heavy new financing. Vanadium, Eastern Kodak and American chain had roughly similar losses. Associated Apparel dropped several points and Worthington Pump tumbled 7. Columbian Carbon rallied when the regular dividend was voted, although the extra was omitted. Alaska Juneau, Pullman and Auburn Auto also advanced.

Drop in Car Loadings.

The selling of the rails was especially disconcerting to the theorists who look to this group to point out market trends. Some of the short sales were doubtless inspired by reports, later confirmed, that loadings for the week ended March 28 had declined.

The shrinkage from the previous week, which had seen freight movement at a high for the year, was more than 1,800 cars.

Call money returned to the 1½ per cent level. Old loans renewed at 2 per cent, but the charge for new borrowing was lowered in the afternoon as the banks found more funds at hand. Security loans by Federal Reserve Member Banks fell $80,000,000 in the last week, but accommodations extended to "others," mostly commercial customers, rose $29,000,000. Banks were sellers of Government securities, presumably in preparation for forthcoming issues, although they added to their holdings of corporate bonds.

A lower liverpool market, bearish Kansas reports and beneficial rains in the Northwest pulled wheat down in the neighborhood of a cent. Corn eased ½ to ¾ net, reflecting a poor cash demand and good Southwestern weather. Cotton was liquidated most of the day, closing 75 to 85 cents a bale lower.

There was little change in the European currencies, although the Spanish peseta edged to a new 1931 high. The Brazilian milreis was heavy.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, April 7 (A.P.).—In a downhill slide with securities, grain today received special impetus from advices that the crop outlook, for domestic winter wheat was almost perfect. Moreover, North American export demand for wheat had again come to a halt. Dispatches said transatlantic millers were not inclined to follow any advance whatsoever in the wheat market, although European continental stocks of native wheat were small.

Wheat closed heavy, unchanged to 1 cent lower, corn ⅜ to ¾ cent off, oats ⅛ to ⅛ cent down, and provisions showing 2 to 12 cents decline.

Right from the beginning wheat traders had to contend with the influence of after-Easter Liverpool quotations lower than expected, emphasizing that the world supply and demand outlook indicated decidedly lower prices. Persistent reports of threatened severe damage in North America this season from insect ravages failed to act as an offset, although official warnings of widespread infestation of cutworms in Alberta and Saskatchewan Provinces, Canada, were added to the list of other pests in various sections of domestic wheat territory as a result of the exceptionally mild winter. Virtual completion dearth of new export business in North American wheat, however, largely offset talk of probable crop damage.

Bearish crop estimates from the Southwest—Texas and Kansas in particular—were of much effect, some figures indicating biggest Texas yields ever produced by Texas. One trade authority contended that the outlook was for a carryover of 350,000,000 bushels in the United States on July 1, indicating a total of 820,000,000 bushels of old wheat left in North America and about 500,000,000 bushels more raised this season for export. Against this, 350,000,000 bushels was an estimate of wheat exports from North America for the year ending July 1.

Corn and oats went lower with wheat, corn going almost to the season's bottom-price level and oats outdoing the record.

Provisions were dragged down by hogs and grain.

RECESSION IS LED BY BRAZILIAN BONDS

National and State Issues at New Lows; Domestic Rails Decline.

New York, April 7 (A.P.).—Led by a sharp break in Brazilian issues the bond market receded today. The standard statistics average price for leading rail obligations reached a new low for this year at 100.1 and the composite average of representative rail, industrial and public utility loans also reached a new low at 88.9.

A large number of the Brazilian issues made new low records, a fact which bankers familiar with the fiscal affairs of that nation seemed unable to explain, although it was agreed by some of them that the government finances have not been entirely satisfactory for time. So far as could be learned no default in the immediate future is likely for any of these issues, of the Federal, municipal or provincial governments.

Heavy Sale Reported.

It is known, however, that the Federal Government's interest and sinking fund payments this month total $13,377,000. One explanation of the slump in bond circles today was that one large holder of these bonds felt uncertain about their future and sold his holdings "at the market."

Rio Grande Do Sul 8s of 1946 dropped 14 points to a new low at 65. Net losses of 2 to 10 points occurred in the obligations of the Brazilian Federal government, Rio de Janeiro, City and State of Sao Paulo and Minas Geraes.

Declines were general among other foreign bonds too, but they were much more moderate than in the Brazilians. Obligations of Argentina, Australia, Bolivia, Chile Mortgage Bank, Colombia, Peru and Poland lost 1 point or more. Some of this weakness was regarded as sympathetic with the slump in Brazilian issues. Most European bonds were firm and some of them gained fractions.

Interborough 4s Rise.

Railroad loans provided the poorest behavior of the domestic bonds, but the great majority of the declines among the active and more representative issues were minor fractions. This fact was not surprising in view of the decline which this group has experienced since the first week of January.

A sharp rise in Interborough Rapid Transit and Manhattan Elevated Railway 4s, following the passage of the legislation for the unification of New York City's transit lines, featured the public utility group.

Issues of the United States Government were moderately active and slightly higher. Announcement of the details for new short-term financing by the Treasury is expected from Washington.

HOW IT BEGAN

By Russ Murphy and Ray Serrusley

GREAT SCOTT!
THIS EXCLAMATION OF SURPRISE IS SAID TO HAVE ORIGINATED DURING GENERAL WINFIELD SCOTT'S PRESIDENTIAL CAMPAIGN. SCOTT'S DIGNITY AND STYLE WON HIM THE NICKNAME OF "FUSS AND FEATHERS"

GILT-EDGE

IN FORMER TIMES WRITING PAPER OF FINE QUALITY NEARLY ALWAYS CARRIED A GILT EDGE. IT WAS FROM THIS PRACTICE THAT WE FIRST LEARNED TO APPLY THE EXPRESSION TO ANYTHING THAT IS EXCEPTIONALLY GOOD.

BLIMP

THIS WORD, APPLIED TO NON-RIGID BALLOONS WAS COMPOUNDED BY TAKING THE "B" FROM BALLOON AND PLACING IT IN FRONT OF "LIMP"

HOW TO KEEP WELL

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

STEALING IRISH HONORS.

A PHYSICIAN recently sent us a newspaper article which carried thirty pictures of heads of amateur prize fighters who were to contest in the semifinals of the Golden Gloves contest. This is an annual boxing feature and draws fighters from widely scattered parts of the country. The process is one of elimination. Starting with a horde of contestants, there are meetings on meetings and fights on fights until the crowning festival to pick the survivors in eight classes.

Adding the attendance at the preliminary contests to that of the final, we get a sum total of interested citizens that exceeds the number of votes cast in some States in electing their governors. The number of fighters, first and last, runs into the hundreds.

Our physician correspondent called attention to the preponderance of boys with pointed chins, long under jaws, and narrow faces. This letter was referred to the sporting editor. He replied that the fighting fraternity have long recognized that prize fighters mostly had pointed chins. The explanation given by the brotherhood was that men ready for fighting had very little fat in the neck, and a fatless neck caused a pointed chin. Prize fighters do train fine—too fines for endurance, in my opinion—but this is not an explanation of that pointed chin. Certain groups of ladies have given a lot of thought to the subject of fatless necks, and they will take issue with the prize fighters.

The list of names of fighters includes Beattie, Smith, Long, Kaktus, Caserio, Nemeth, Wade, Keenan, Fontana, Phagan, Celebron, Rozina, Holden, Kastman, Sylvano, Muscarello, Gonzales, Kalvenoni, Metz, Edwards, Goodman, Scilaba, Maker, Jackson, Doxey, Rodak, Eliopoulas. These names would indicate that most of the force were the sons of foreign-born parents. Neither the old American stock nor the old Celtic stock seems to be contributing much to our future fighting forces.

Of the boys who write me saying they are planning to take up prize fighting as a business practically all have names which indicate that they are of the more recent immigration tides. In this group the pictures which show the longest faces are labeled with names that indicate these latter strains. This suggests an answer to my friend's question. Beyond this I do not know of any explanation. It could hardly be that prize fighters develop these long chins to serve as targets.

STILL HAVE TROUBLE.

M. S. writes: I had a toxic goiter operation two years ago. Since then I have been working as a painter and have had lots of excitement which left me nervous. After lunch my heart starts laboring very hard and I can actually see my shirt being pushed up by it. The same occurs after eating supper. The result is that I am worried and sleepy and have no pep at all.

REPLY.

My guess is that you still have goiter trouble and need treatment for that. Application of ice bags over your thyroid and your heart will give you temporary relief.

Bowling League Gives Dinner as Season Ends

The Dynamite Bowling League, composed of professional, scientific and administrative personnel in the Treasury and Justice Departments, celebrated the close of a successful season with a dinner dance at the Blue Triangle Hut, Twentieth street and Constitution avenue northwest. About 140 attended.

Dr. W. V. Linder presided as toastmaster. G. A. Youngquist, Assistant Attorney General; James M. Doran, commissioner of industrial alcohol; R. M. Estes, deputy commissioner of Internal Revenue, and Howard T. Jones, assistant director of the Bureau of Prohibition, were guests of honor. Each spoke briefly.

Two Navy Craft Fly From Capital to Cuba

(Associated Press.)

Two new Navy flying boats yesterday completed a flight of nearly 1,500 miles from Washington to Cuba.

The flight was made to deliver the ships to the scouting force in Cuban waters. It began here on April 3, and was completed with the arrival of the planes at Media Luna Cay, Cuba.

ORAL FLAG QUIZZES TO DECIDE CONTEST

Splendid Essays Submitted Will Throw Burden on Saturday's Tests.

Winning essays in the contest for a good will trip to London and Paris conducted in the high schools of the city by the United States Flag Association with the cooperation of The Washington Post, are beginning to reach Flag Association national headquarters. Many of the teachers have completed their volunteer task of marking the papers and have selected the boy and girl who will represent their school in the preliminary test Saturday. All the winners' names must be in the hands of U. S. Flag Association officials by Friday morning, in order that plans for the test may be completed.

The writer has been privileged to read several of the essays and the conclusion drawn is that the selection of the final boy and girl as "Envoys of Friendship" for the patriotic pilgrimage and the good will trip to Europe, will be made on the ability displayed in the oral quiz, because all essays read so far are simply splendid. Choosing between any two of them would be a hard task for any judge.

For this reason it is believed that the oral quiz and the written examination Saturday will have an important bearing on the final naming of the six boys and girls who will enter the final test on April 18. All of this is just one more reason why every contestant should continue to study facts about American history and the American Flag, its institutions and ideals. Until Saturday morning there will be no public announcement of the names of the contestants in the preliminary test, and they will be published that morning in The Washington Post.

Answers in Little Essays.

In the meantime it behooves every boy and girl interested in the contest to continue to read The Washington Post, giving especial attention to the short daily essay on some patriotic subject prepared by Col. James A. Moss, president general of the Flag Association. It is highly probable that the answers to at least some of the written and oral questions will be found in these little essays.

As the time for the preliminary test draws nearer there is being manifested a great deal of interest by both students and their parents, many of them calling up national headquarters of the United States Flag Association here to obtain further information. Again it must be repeated that there is no information at Flag Association headquarters other than what has already been published in The Washington Post. Any changes in schedule plans or any additional information of use to the contestants will be sent to this paper and published here first.

In order to insure rapid handling of the preliminary test Saturday, officials of the Flag Association have ruled that every contestant who is selected to represent his or her school must be at the Franklin School Building ready for the examination promptly at 9 o'clock or before. Tardiness will bar the contestant. This is made necessary in order that the boys and girls may be properly divided into groups for the test, it is explained, and to do this all contestants must be in place at the appointed hour. The best plan is to be there fifteen minutes in advance of 9 o'clock.

Written Tests in Forenoon.

The written examination, conducted by officials of the Flag Association, will be held in the forenoon, the contestants being permitted to go to lunch after finishing that phase of the test. The oral quiz, designed to show the general intelligence of the boys and girls, will be held in the afternoon, the grades to be awarded on a combination of essay, written examination and oral quiz.

All the boys and girls who appear for the preliminary test Saturday will be awarded the "Old Glory" Medal of the Flag Association, carrying with it life membership in the Order of the Flag, and all will be invited to attend the finals, regardless of whether they are selected as contestants for the finals. All medals will be pinned on the contestants at the final test, April 18, at which a number of people, nationally and internationally prominent, will be present.

Every indication points to a hard task for the judges. All contestants are of high standing and all show evidences of splendid training, insofar as the essays received so far indicate. The contest is going to be close and no student who has been selected to take part in Saturday's preliminary test has any cause to blush for his or her standing in school.

Washington schools are going to have just cause to be proud of the boy and girl selected to represent them on the good-will trip to Europe.

Flag of United States Representative of Peace

This is the eighth of a series of essays on the flag which are intended to assist entrants in The Post-United States Flag Association "Envoy of Friendship Contest" in preparing for the preliminary test to be held April 11.

By COL. JAMES A. MOSS
U. S. Army, Retired,
President General, United States Flag Association.

In the popular mind the flag of a nation is associated primarily with its wars—with marching soldiers and martial music. However, the war achievements of a nation are only a part of what its flag represents. Its flag also represents the peace accomplishments of the country. The ideals and traditions of a people, their progress in commerce and agriculture, their achievements in art and science, are all symbolized by their flag, equally as much as are their wars. Let us bear in mind, too, that victories of peace are often greater than those of war—that they often require as much, if not greater courage, than do the successes of war. Take, for example, that great army of American toiling men and women which made its way slowly, year by year, step by step, from ocean to ocean, across this great continent—an epic that played such an important part in making America great. Their privations, their hardships, their struggles, their sufferings, required courage, fortitude and daring as great as those ever demanded by war.

So let us not, then, make the mistake of always associating the American flag with war. Let us remember that it represents equally the great peace achievements of the American people. Let us not forget that "Peace hath her victories no less renowned than war."

UNIVERSITY PLANS JEFFERSON HONOR

Many Events Are Listed at Charlottesville for Next Week.

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., April 7.—Next week offers many events of interest to residents of Charlottesville and the university, as well as to hundreds of visitors from this and other States.

On Monday morning the annual Founders Day exercises will be held at the university, which Thomas Jefferson founded, the buildings of which he designed and had constructed under his personal supervision. Dr. Edwin A. Alderman, president of the university, will welcome the visitors. He will also present the Hon. Michael MacWhite, Minister to the United States from the Irish Free State, who will deliver the principal address.

At 2:30 o'clock Monday afternoon Jefferson's birthday will be observed at Monticello, where a reception will be given in honor of Mr. MacWhite and in honor of the officials of the Virginia State Choral Festival Association, which has arranged a four-day music festival to follow the celebration of Jefferson's birthday.

Jefferson Was Musician.

Thomas Jefferson was a musician. On June 8, 1778, he wrote to a friend in Paris, "Music is the favorite passion of my soul." In that letter he told his friend that he employed a gardener, a weaver, a cabinetmaker, a stonecutter and a "vigneron."

Jefferson asked this friend whether it might not be possible to find men in France who would be willing to accept such employment at Monticello, but who could also play different musical instruments "so that one might have a band of two French horns, two clarinets, two hautboys and a bassoon without enlarging their domestic expenses."

Jefferson was the proud possessor of an original Cremona violin. Next Monday there will be exhibited at Monticello the original music stand on which Jefferson rested his music while he played on his violin and also the little music rack in which Jefferson carried his music from room to room. An original music book which Thomas Jefferson used and another music book which his daughter, Martha Jefferson, also used will be placed on exhibition commencing Monday.

Hoover, Refusing Food Tariff Drop, Asks Delay

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover yesterday returned to the Tariff Commission without his approval a recommendation for lower duties on cherries, sulphured or in brine, and tomatoes, prepared or preserved in any way.

In a letter to Chairman Fletcher of the commission the President said: "The recommendation was of necessity based upon conditions maintaining before the emergency created by the drought and in some cases upon data over a period of so short experience as to make it desirable that the commission be afforded more time. I should like, therefore, if the commission would undertake to review the facts upon the basis of the forthcoming crops and make another report."

Unsung Naval Hero Seeks Citzenship

Man Who Piloted Dewey's Fleet Into Manila Bay Files His Papers.

An unsung hero of the Battle of Manila Bay yesterday made an application for his second naturalization papers so that within 90 days he can become a legalized citizen of the country whose cause he fought for many years ago.

The man is Francisco Aguado y Reyes, of 1722 Nineteenth street northwest. He came to the United States in November, 1928, after having spent a lifetime piloting vessels in the waters about the Philippine capital.

It was this knowledge of the numerous bays and inlets of Manila Harbor that enabled him to safely pilot the Olympia, Dewey's flagship, into the harbor. Since that time he has been chief pilot and harbor master of Manila Bay. Several communications from naval officers and a letter recommending him to Admiral Dewey as a reliable pilot and a young patriot who was eager to serve the United States were among the credentials he showed Mrs. Helen T. McGraw, assistant clerk of the District Supreme Court, in charge of naturalization papers. He has six children, all of whom live in the United States.

Woman Asks Bankruptcy.

Listing debts of $6,105.75, Mary K. Powell, trading as the Hotel Plaza Cafe, yesterday asked the District Supreme Court to adjudge her a bankrupt. The schedule filed with the papers showed that she had no assets.

Circus of Boys Club Opens Tomorrow Night

All the thrills of a big top circus, with side shows, acrobats, clowns and animals, will feature the third annual mammoth show of the Boys Club of Washington tomorrow and Friday nights at the club, 230 C street northwest.

A 50-piece band will furnish the music. There will be red lemonade, peanuts, popcorn, hot dogs and what not, according to the committee in charge. The boys of the club have been training for months in preparation for the circus. Some of them rival professionals in talent. Children of the various orphanages will be their guests on Friday.

Dry Law Padlock Asked By U. S. for Restaurant

Harold W. Orcutt, assistant United States attorney, yesterday asked the District Supreme Court for a one-year padlock on the premises at 1146 Seventeenth street northwest. He also asked that three men, Philip Andrew Boccardi, Carlo Jaccarino and Frank Parodi, be enjoined from violating any of the provisions of the national prohibition act pending a final hearing on the padlock request.

The proceedings are brought under the nuisance provisions of the prohibition act. Two affidavits are attached to the petition, one from Oscar E. Allen and the other from John Auffenberg, both members of the Police Department. Allen related in his affidavit several instances wherein he had purchased liquor at the place, which is a restaurant.

Visiting Time Extended At Lincoln Memorial

The Lincoln Memorial will remain open permanently until 9:30 p. m. daily, Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, director of the Office of Public Buildings and Public Parks, announced yesterday. The move was made to accommodate tourists, principally.

Large attendance at the memorial between 4:30 and 9:30 p. m. during the past few weeks, during the time it was open experimentally at night, revealed the need for the time extension, it was said.

Father and Son Held In Ambuscade Death

Yellville, Ark., April 7 (A.P.).—Homer Wallace, 60, and his son, Grant Wallace, 20, were arrested and charged with first degree murder after Sheriff C. A. Willingham quoted them as confessing they participated in an ambuscade in the Peel community, near the Missouri State line, last Saturday, in which George Long, 38, was killed.

Ship's Passenger Dies.

New York, April 7 (A.P.).—Thomas W. Campbell, 48, of Cleveland, Ohio, a passenger on the steamship Ecuador, died today as the boat docked. Death was caused by heart disease. Mr Campbell boarded the ship in South America.

Tortured Man Found; Robbers' Attempt Fails

St. Clairsville, Ohio, April 7 (A.P.).—His ears and finger tips partially torn off by robbers who tortured him in an effort to locate his money, Andy Yelan, 55, was found unconscious today in his home at Barton. His condition was critical.

Yelan said three robbers invaded his home late last night and demanded to know the hiding place of $2,000 he received recently from the sale of real estate. He refused and the robbers used a pair of pliers to pinch his ears and fingers until he lost consciousness.
